ANNUAL PUBLICATION BY THE STUDENTS OF CLAREMONT CENTRAL HIGH, HICKORY, N. C.

Hickory Log 1962

EDITED BY KATHY CLINE, MANAGED BY CHERYL YOUNT, AND ADVISED BY MRS. JUNE SUMMERS AND MRS. DORIS SIGMON.

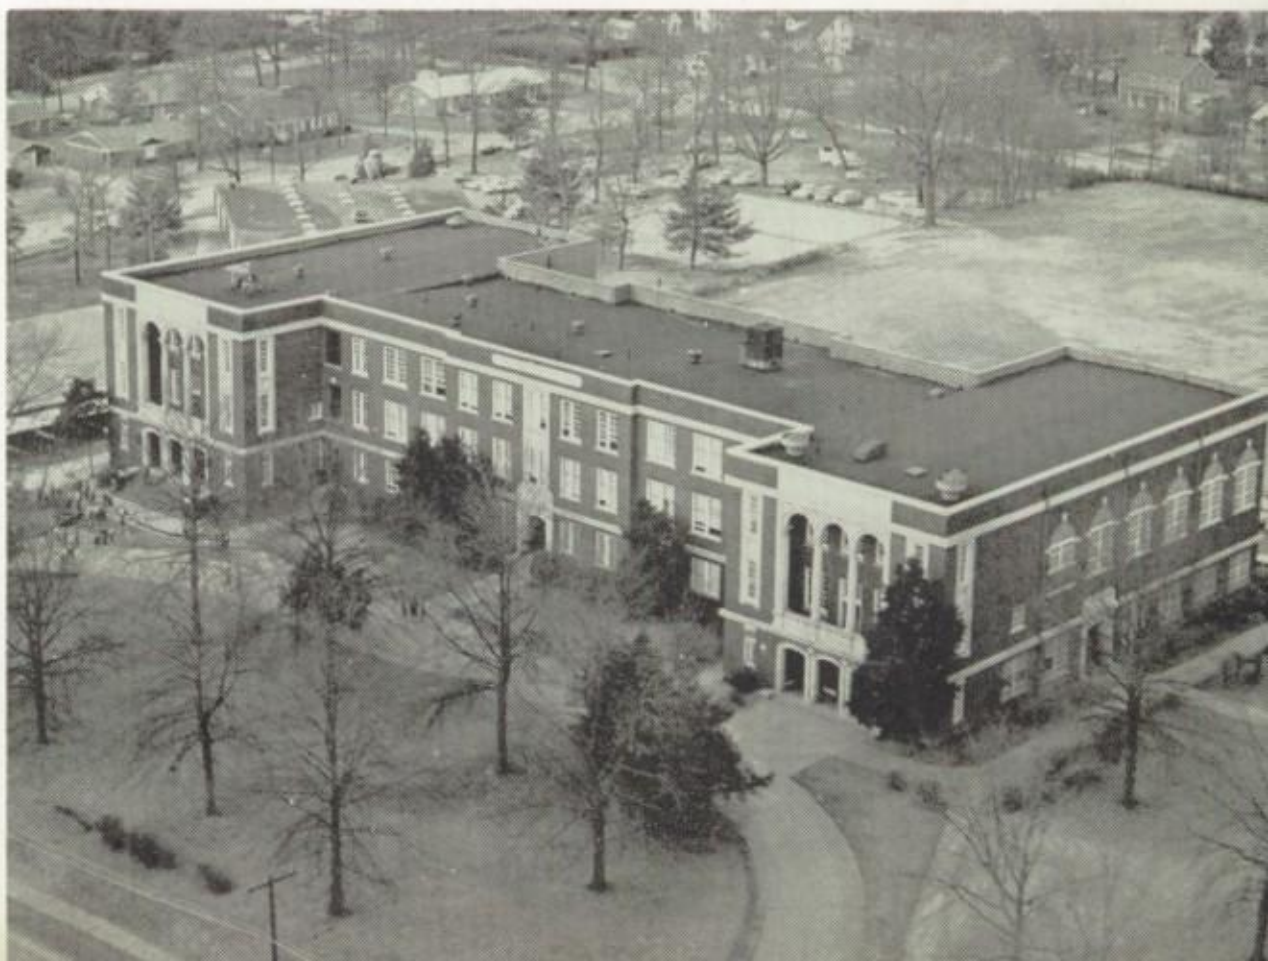
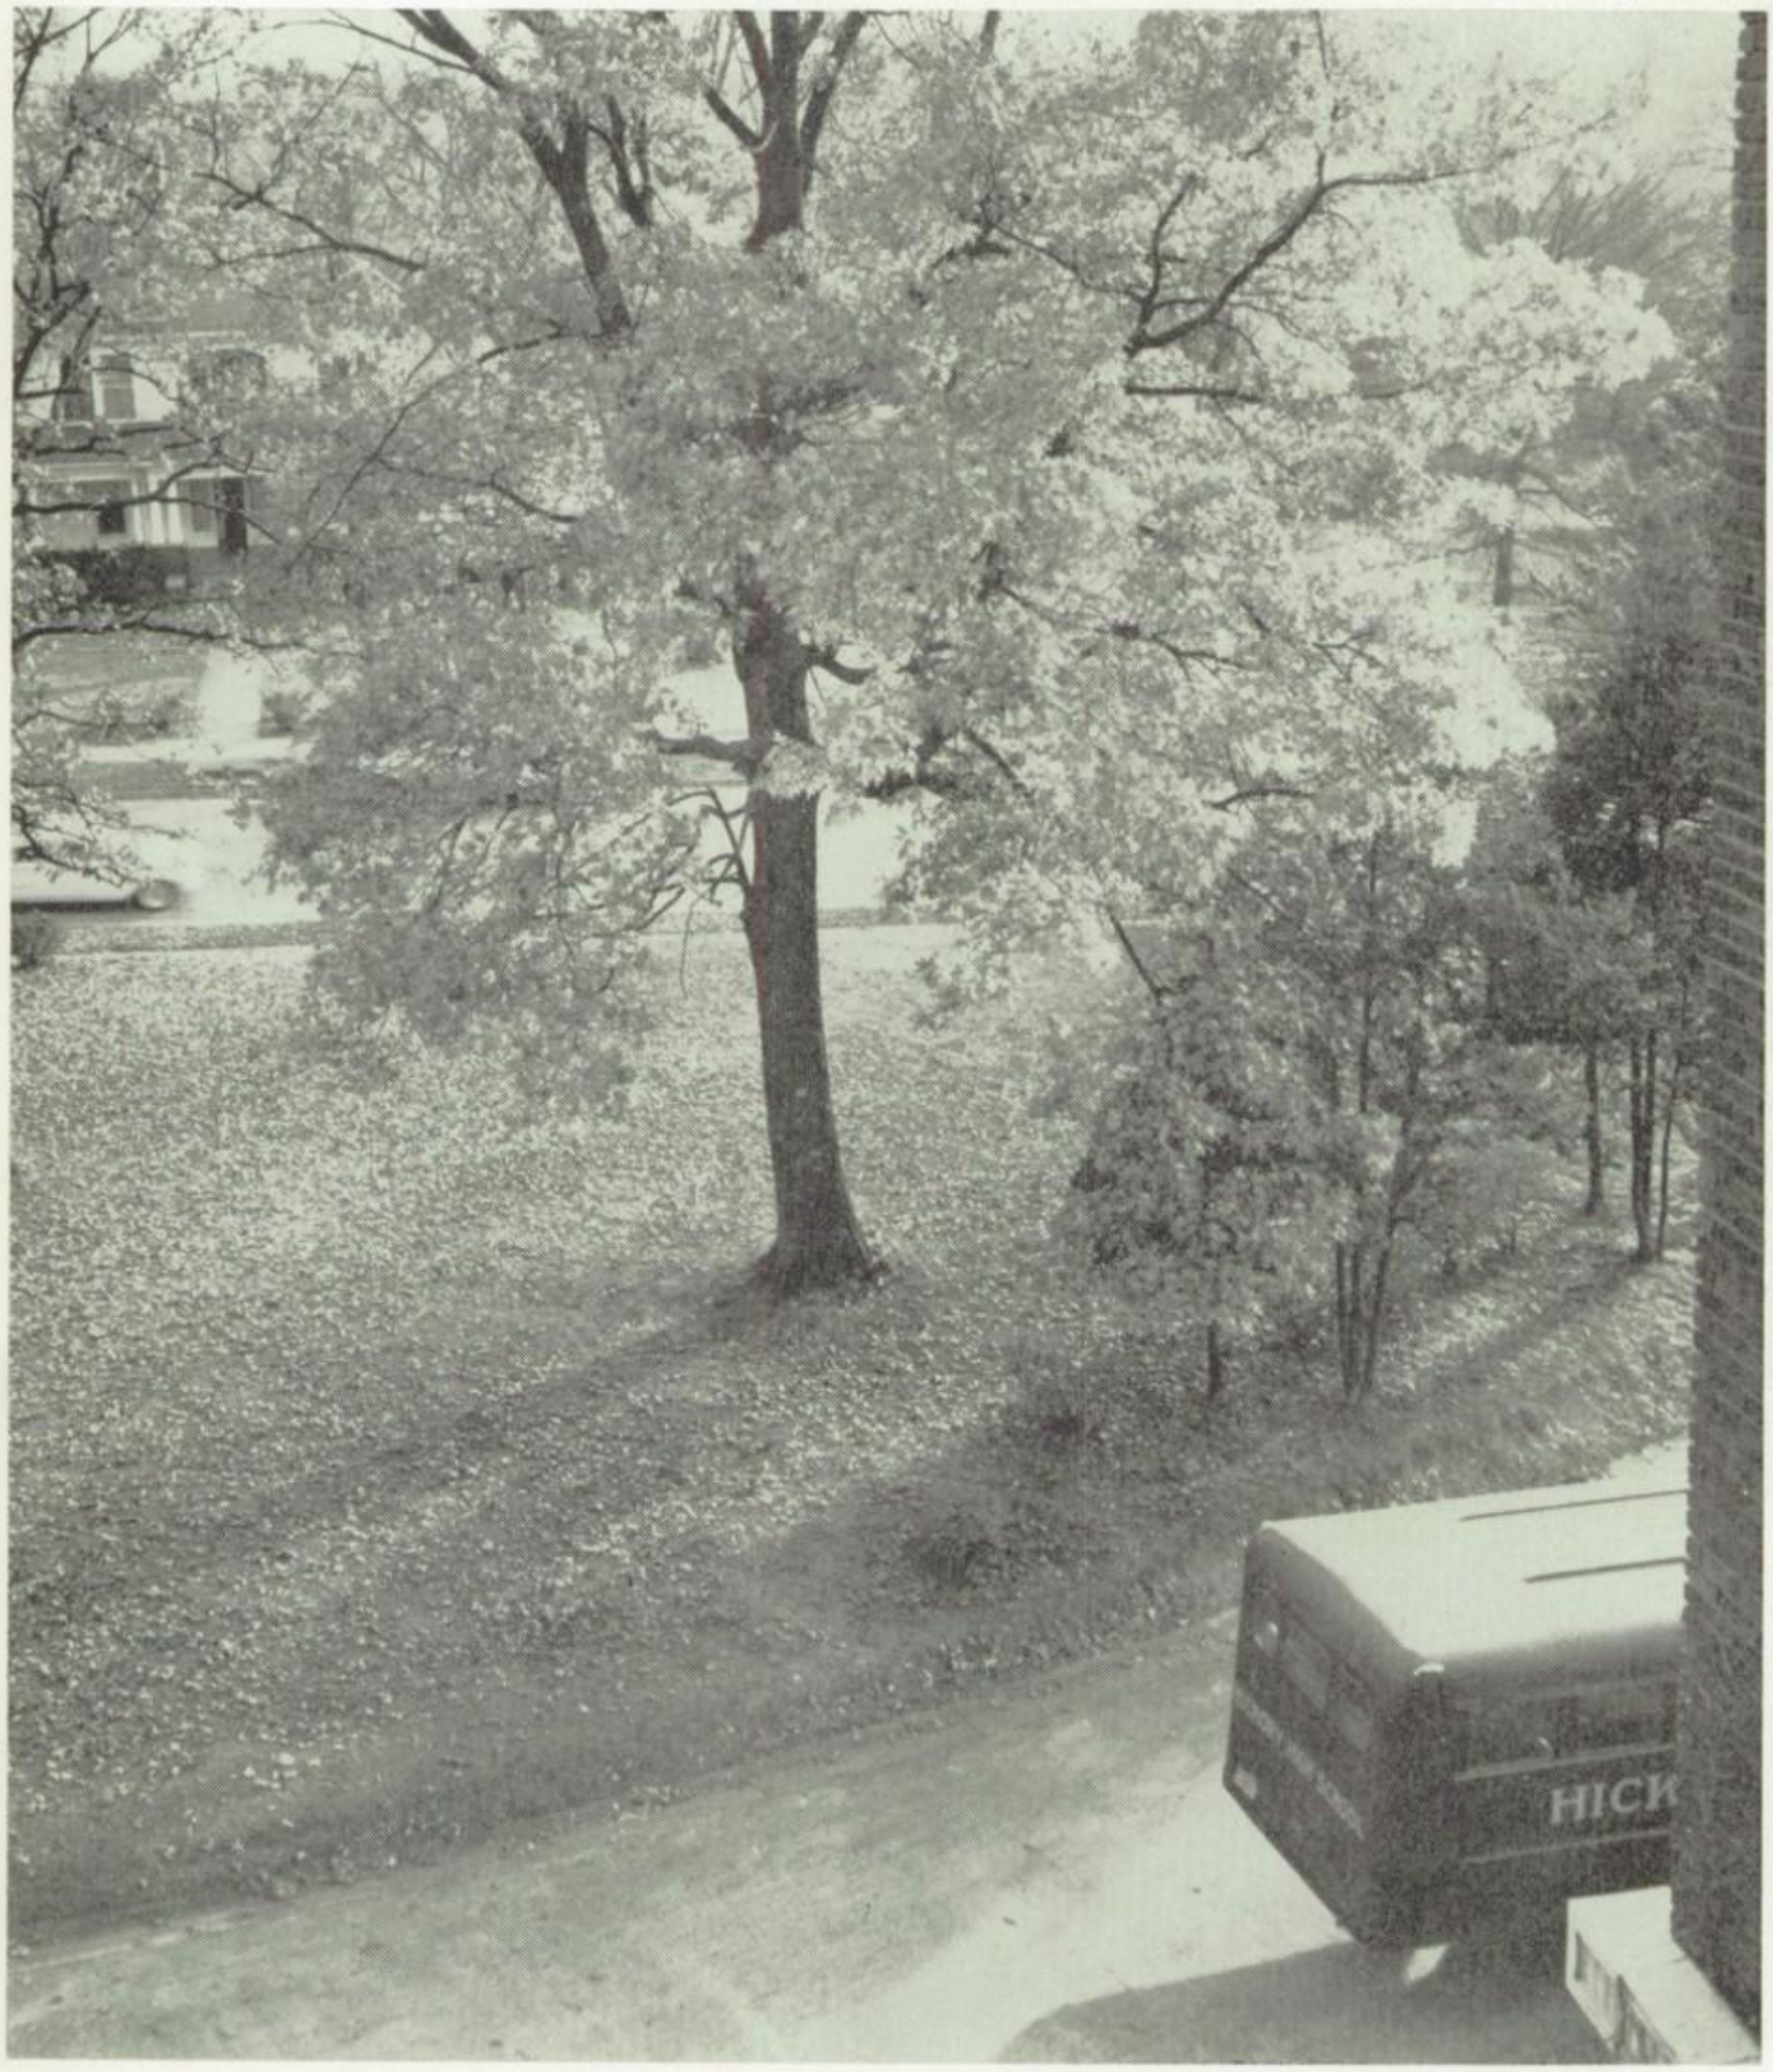
Hickory, a growing community of diversification and opportunity, offers its citizens present stability and a promising future.

Hickory—A Tree, A Town, A School And Its Students . . .



Officially named Claremont Central High, the school is known to the people of Hickory and to others acquainted with it as Hickory High.

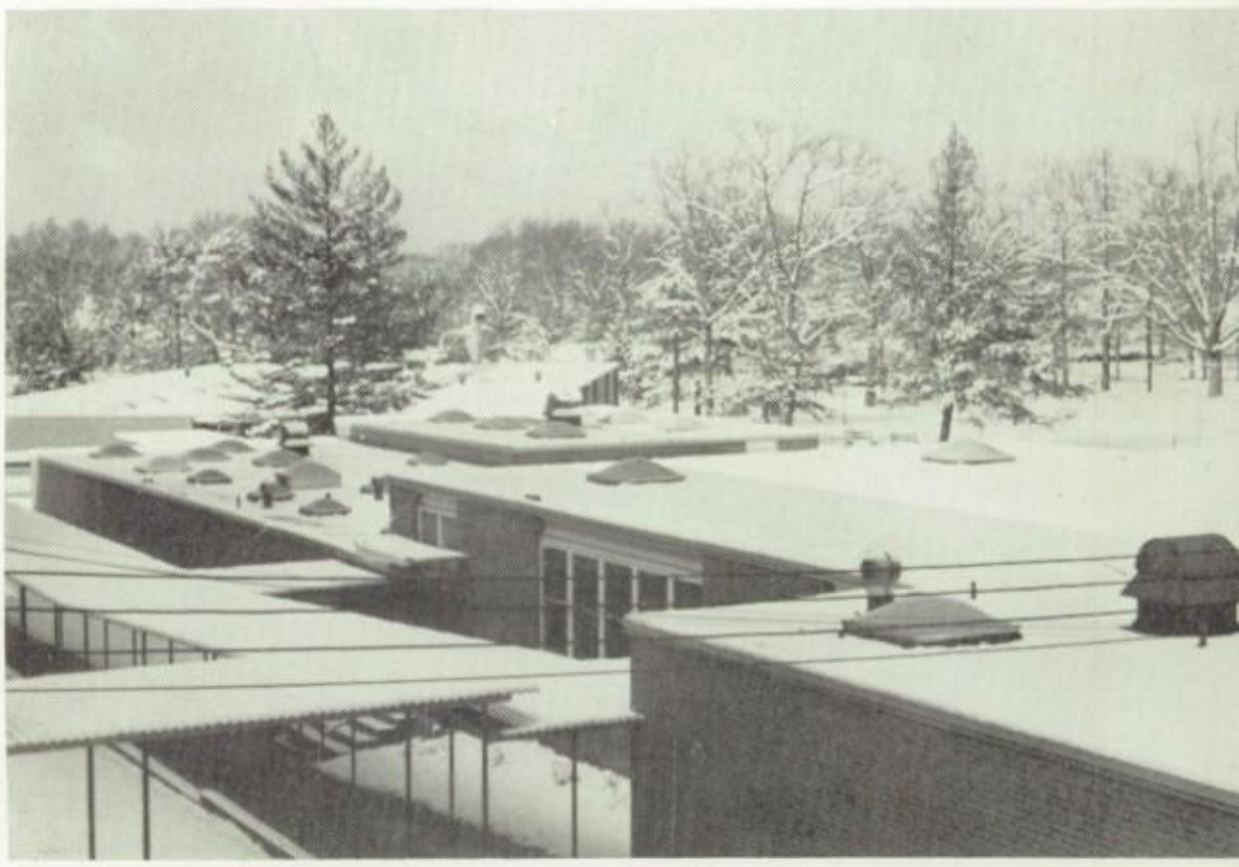


Each student's life is rooted in his home, his community, and his school. Maturing in the soil of his environment, he grows in proportion to his ability to assimilate that which is available to him. He branches out and becomes productive, but only in proportion to the richness of the soil which gives him strength.

Exercising democratic privileges, students campaign for positions in student government.

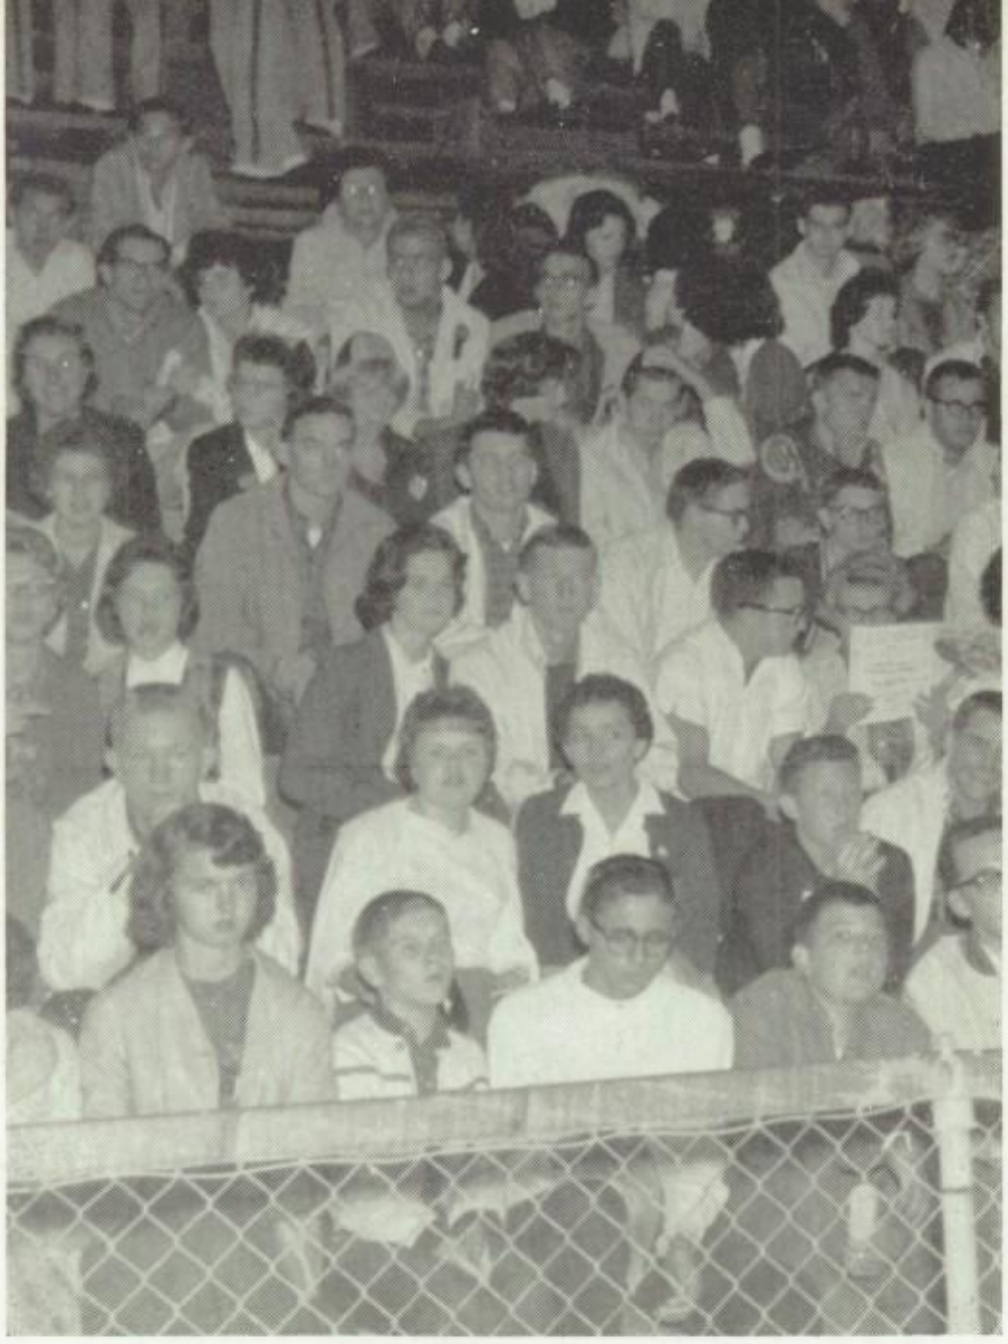
Who, Rooted In Fertile Soil . . .

Hickory High's modern cafeteria, science and music buildings provide students with superior facilities and equipment.



High academic standing of the High School enables pupils to have the best opportunities for mental growth. Sophomores Kathryn Hemphill and Barbara Jonas find biology both challenging and interesting.

Living in a well-balanced community, students are given the advantage of unlimited opportunity to develop themselves.



Whether spectators or active participants in sports, youths experience social outgrowth through association with others.

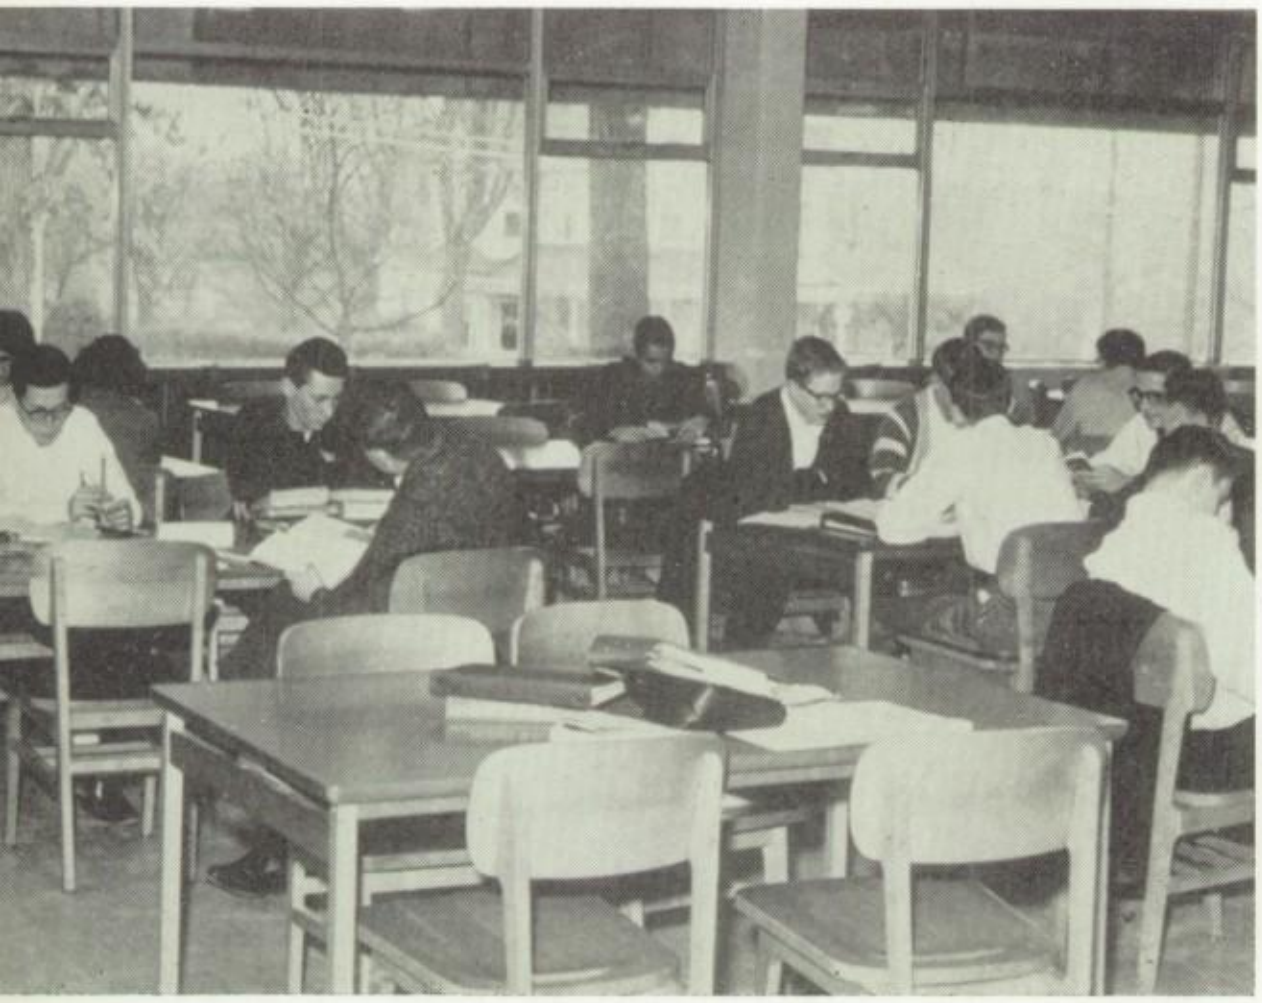
Another phase of H.H.S. life! Students file back to classes after a surprise fire drill, which keeps them prepared for the real thing, if it should come.

MAY BRANCH OUT, THROUGH ASSOCIATION

Passing familiar faces in the halls, students hurry to meet their classes on time.

With Others . . .

Lunch with friends gives students a break from classes as well as the chance to discuss last night's date and today's gossip.



THE SCHOOL 16-35

Channeled through its varied activities, the school provides each student with the equal opportunity for intellectual, social and athletic growth.

And Become . . .

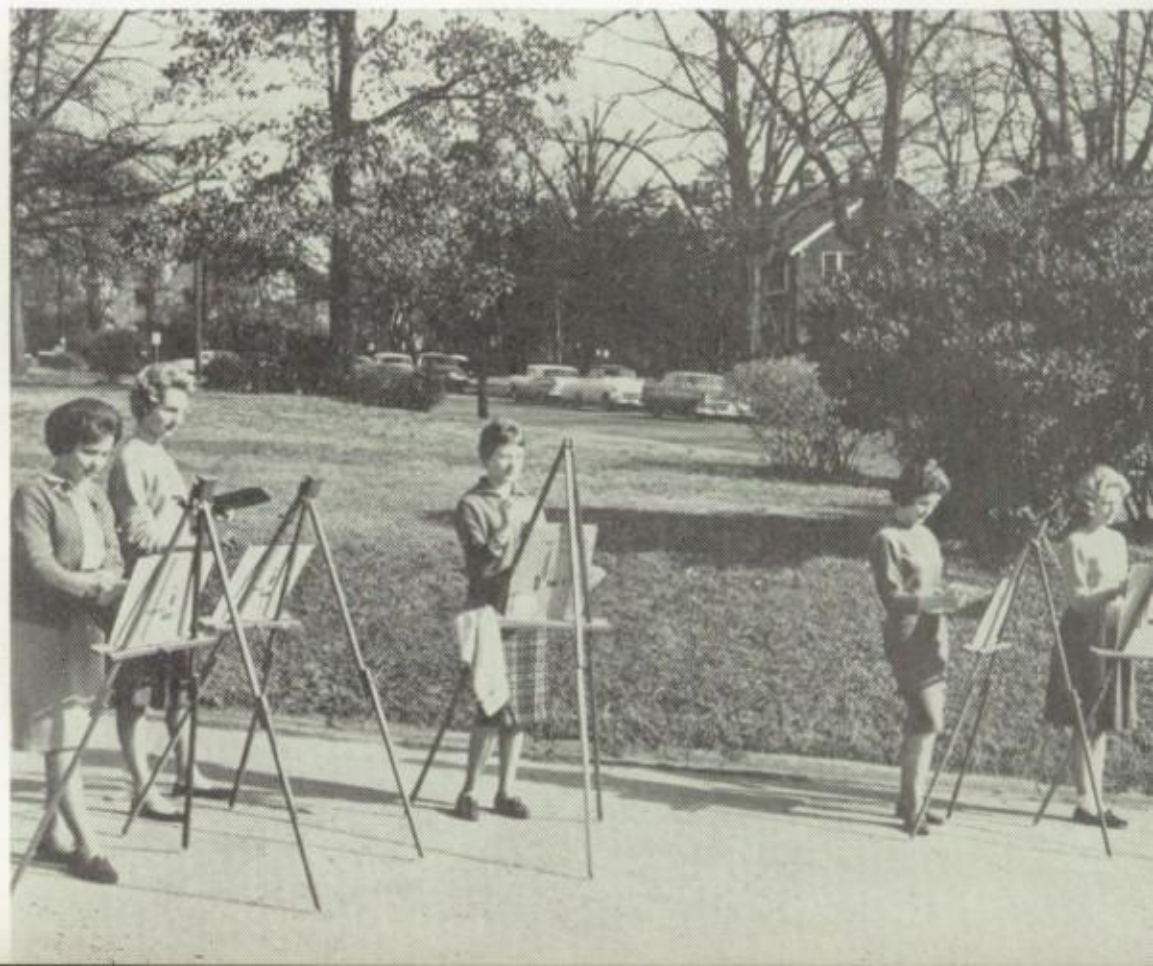
Enjoying the few minutes allowed between classes, the boys take advantage of a light-up time as the girls hurry to their next classes.

ACTIVITIES 92-127

In a setting of stately trees, Art Club members widen their artistic horizons while sketching a familiar H.H.S. building.



ATHLETICS 128-149

Nothing develops the body, mind, and character as well as competitive and intramural activities.

ADVERTISEMENTS 170-242

Locating any new businesses that have moved to Hickory during the past year, Log business staff heads compile a list for possible support through advertising.

FEATURES 150-169

Extracurricular activities are significant in the growth of the students' life and the part most often remembered in the future.

Well-Rounded Individuals

Quick to give advice to his players, Coach Barger leads his football team to a co-conference championship.

Giving to his students unlimited opportunity and recognition; instilling in them a sense of discipline, courage, and good sportsmanship; spurring athletic endeavors of H.H.S. to new and unknown heights in football, track, and basketball; giving his all to students in the sports he loves most; stimulating and promoting commendable school spirit at weekly pep rallies; encouraging good health in Physical Education classes; introducing his pupils to the world through his teaching of geography; and guiding youths safely through the Driver's Training program; an outstanding figure on the faculty is hereby recognized for his numerous contributions.

To Coach Frank Barger, we, the students of Hickory High School, dedicate this 1962 HICKORY LOG.

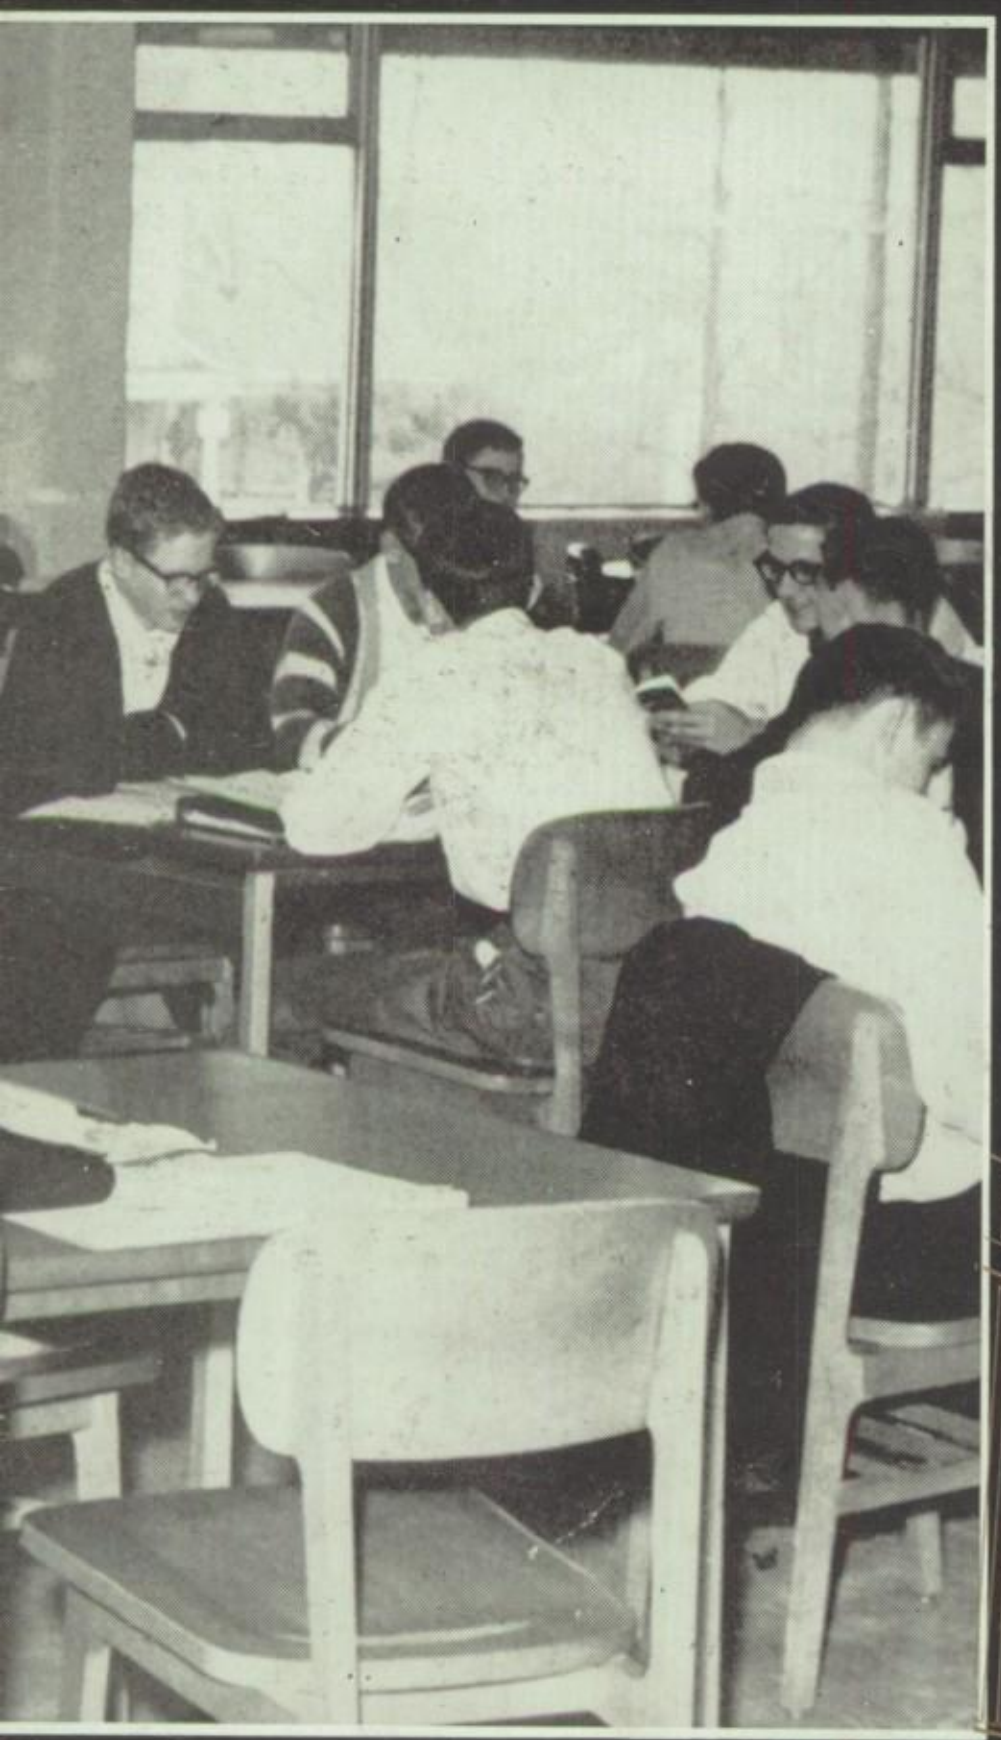
COACH FRANK BARGER PROVIDES OPPORTUNITY TO ACHIEVE

Presenting annual football awards to "his boys," Coach Frank Barger relates details of another winning season to the student body.

School

'Tis education forms
the common mind:
Just as the twig is bent,
the tree's inclined.

—Pope



Possessing a B.S. degree from Wake Forest, his Master of Education from Duke, and his Doctor of Education from U.N.C., Dr. W. M. Jenkins summarizes his notes for the next school board meeting.

With other school officials from the United States, Superintendent Wilmer M. Jenkins has toured Russia to evaluate the educational system offered to its people. Utilizing every progressive opportunity, trips, conferences, reading and studying, he has led Hickory's school board wisely and capably.

Through meetings held once a month, the school board has planned, organized, and carried out new projects such as remodeling and buying additional property for schools to promote quality education.

Conscientious selection of teachers, principals, and modern equipment has given Hickory a school system which provides for the present and future needs of its people.

Administration Sponsors Superintendent's Trip To Russia

Before the monthly meeting gets underway, members of the school board are shown an example of modern equipment to be utilized in the music departments of the Hickory City School System.

After an enlightening trip to Russia, Dr. Jenkins delivers a speech to faculty and citizens, describing school facilities and opportunities available to Russian students.

Hickory High has received a high accredited school rating, made possible by the capable management of Principal W. D. Cottrell, a graduate of V. P. I. and A. S. T. C. An avid participant in civic, church, and sports activities, his versatility has brought forth a closer relationship with students and faculty.

In the teachers' lounge, the faculty takes a break from the daily routine. During this period of relaxation, teachers exchange ideas on everything from politics to teaching methods to the little incidents which make up a school day.

Full time guidance comes to Hickory High! Mrs. Reese counsels a student during morning hours. In a tightly packed schedule of interviews, tests, and vocational planning, two counselors are available to assist students at all times.

Teachers Need More Than Twenty-Four Hours In A Day

Aside from the routine of instructing students and correcting papers, teachers seem to find time for other "extracurricular" activities. Taking their turns on lunch line, yard, and hall duties, they become experienced money handlers whether for books, lunches, or ball game admissions. Outside their regular classes, they serve as advisors to clubs and publications, attend workshops, conferences, or extra classes to learn new teaching methods in preparation for the coming year. For recreation and relaxation, they find time for sports activity and informal get-togethers with other members of the faculty.

One reason the 1961 HICKORY LOG was dedicated to Mrs. Kathryn Havnaer is clearly expressed in the smile she radiates as she learns that she has received the dedication.

Mrs. Summers and Mrs. Allison find a round of golf to be an enjoyable manner of relaxation after school.

Not All Learning

During an outdoor physics experiment, Jon Nixon discovers that Newton's law of gravity still holds.

Without the aid of a teacher, responsible and inquisitive fourth year French students educate themselves in a class of their own, using the facilities of the library.

Takes Place In Classroom

After winning honorable mention for his ultrasonic cleaner, Sam Harmon explains the complex mechanism to a group of interested viewers at the N. C. Science Fair. Like other projects, Sam's has required extensive study and research outside of school.

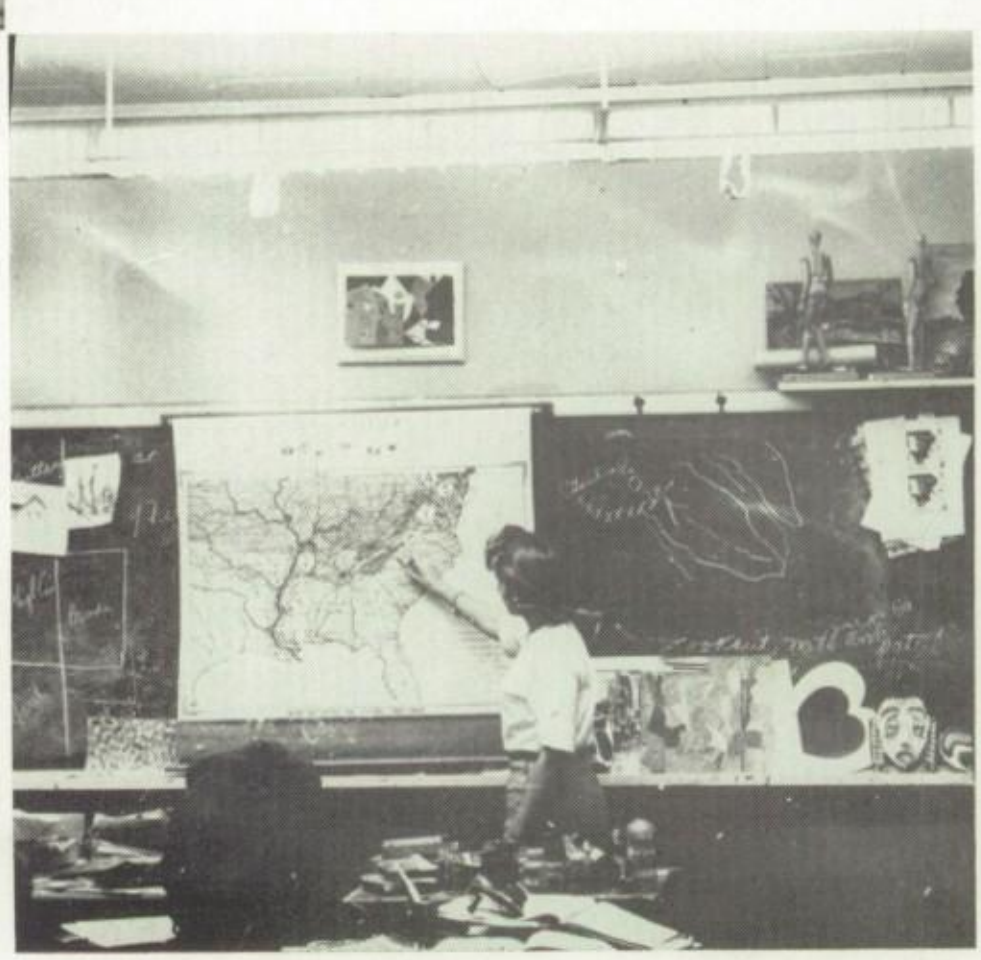
As students listen intently, Tommy Deal explains a new method for solving a geometric problem.

Basic Subjects Are Foundation



In United States History class, Ida Lee Wilfong points out the site of a major Civil War battle.

For Advancing Knowledge

Capturing the Scottish flavor of Macbeth, Pat Finegan and Larry Bunton prepare a bulletin board with highland tartan for their Senior English class.

Fascinating creatures, in a new realm of experience, are revealed to biology students through the microscope.

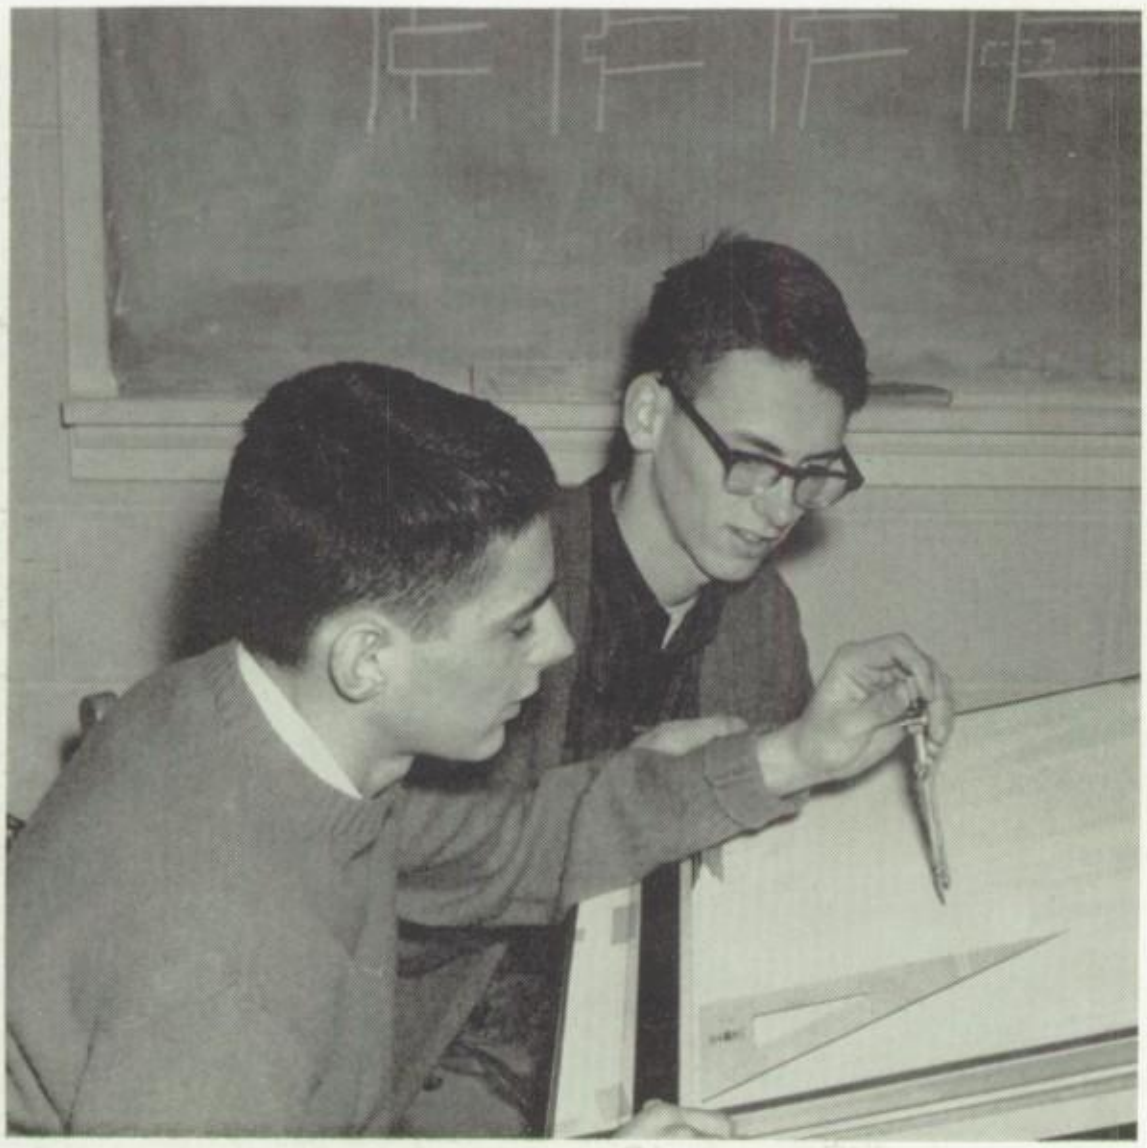
Determined not to make any mistakes this time, Joyce Garner resolutely works on her typing assignment for the day.

Vocational Subjects

Bill Smart puts the finishing touches on a modernistic coffee table, a Christmas gift for his family.

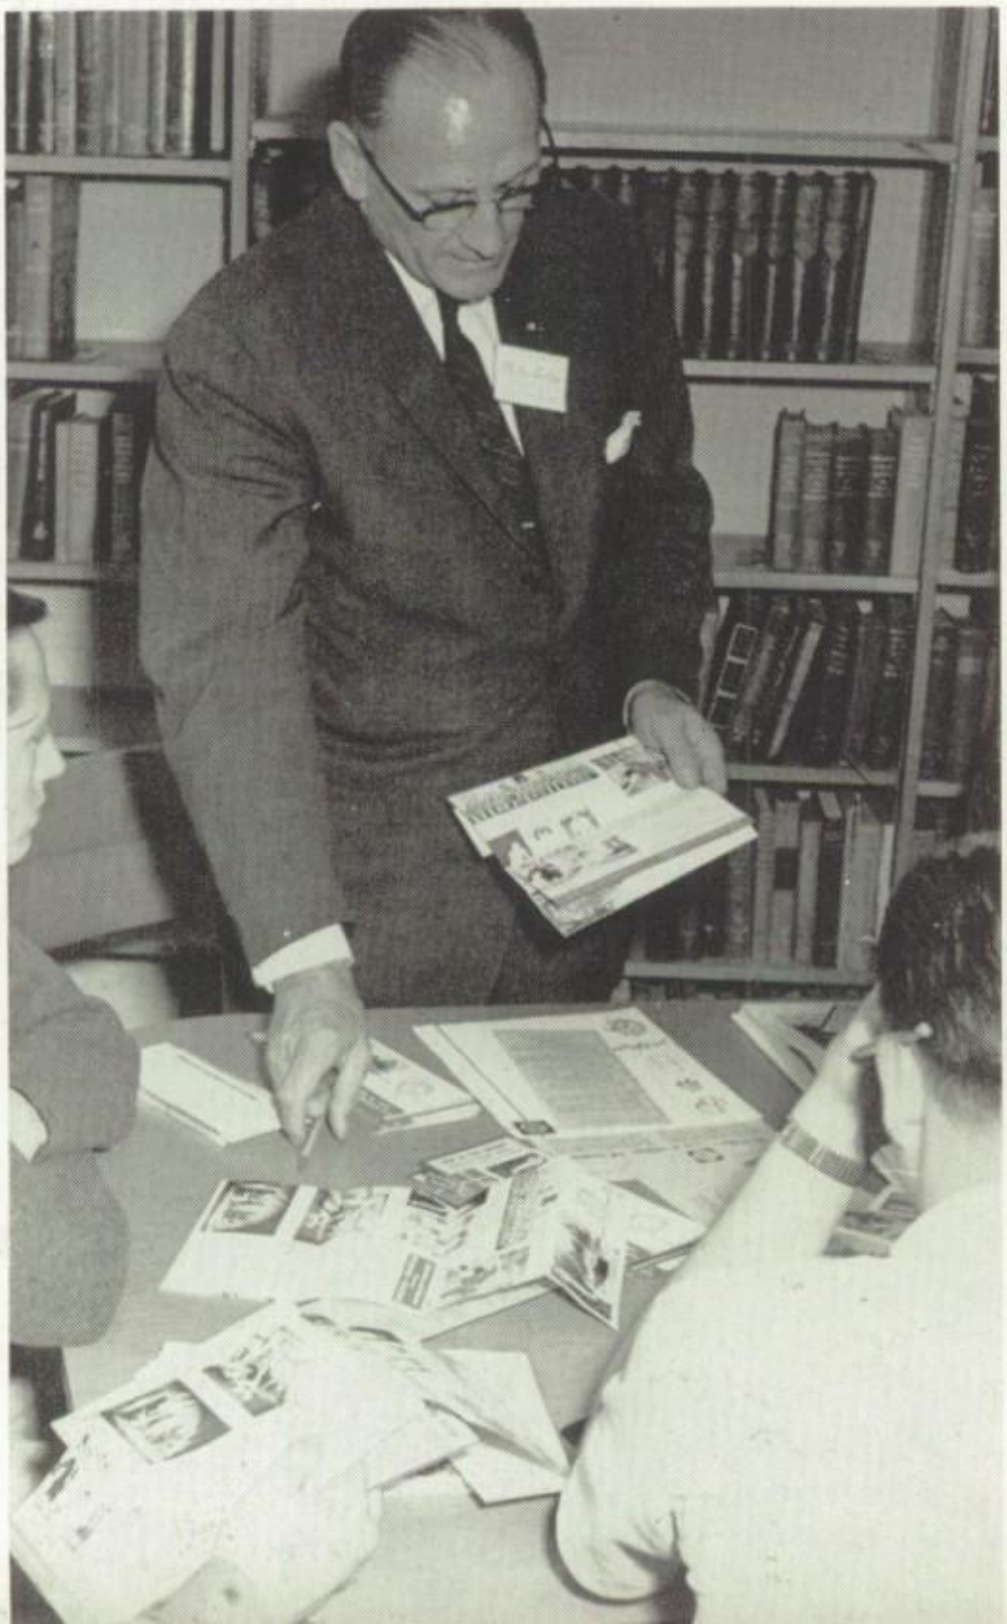
Modern methods of food preservation and meal preparation are taught in Homemaking class.

Train Students For Future Jobs



John Finger asks the advice of George Henson, an advanced student, regarding the solution of a mechanical drawing problem.

Discovering that chemistry can be both interesting and fun, Janet Martin and Cliff Russell eagerly await the results of their experiment.



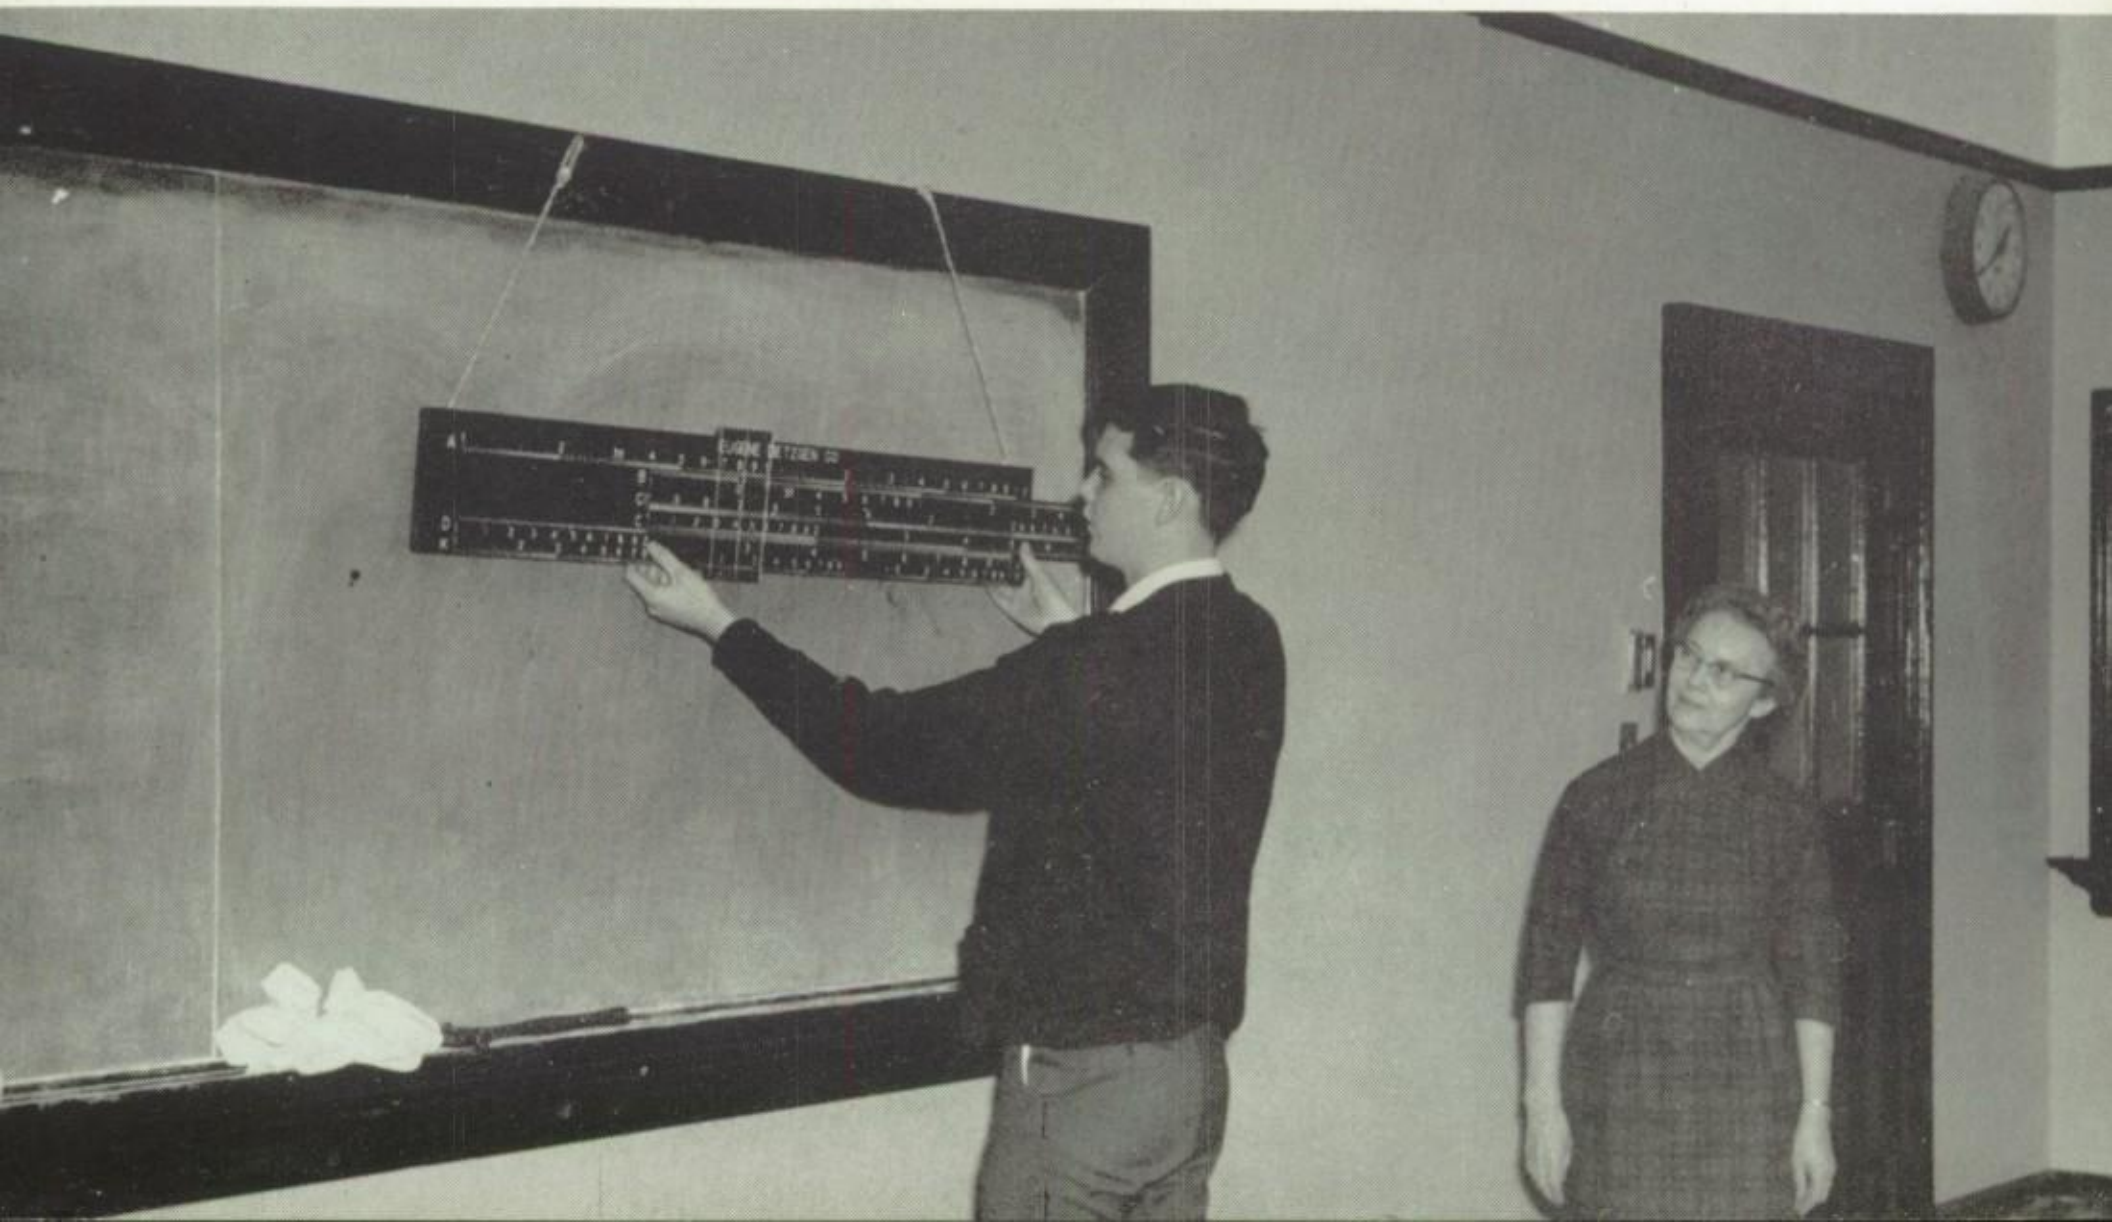
Informative Talks,

Student prospects listen attentively as a representative from Pfeiffer College extols the merits of his institution during Hickory High's annual College Day.

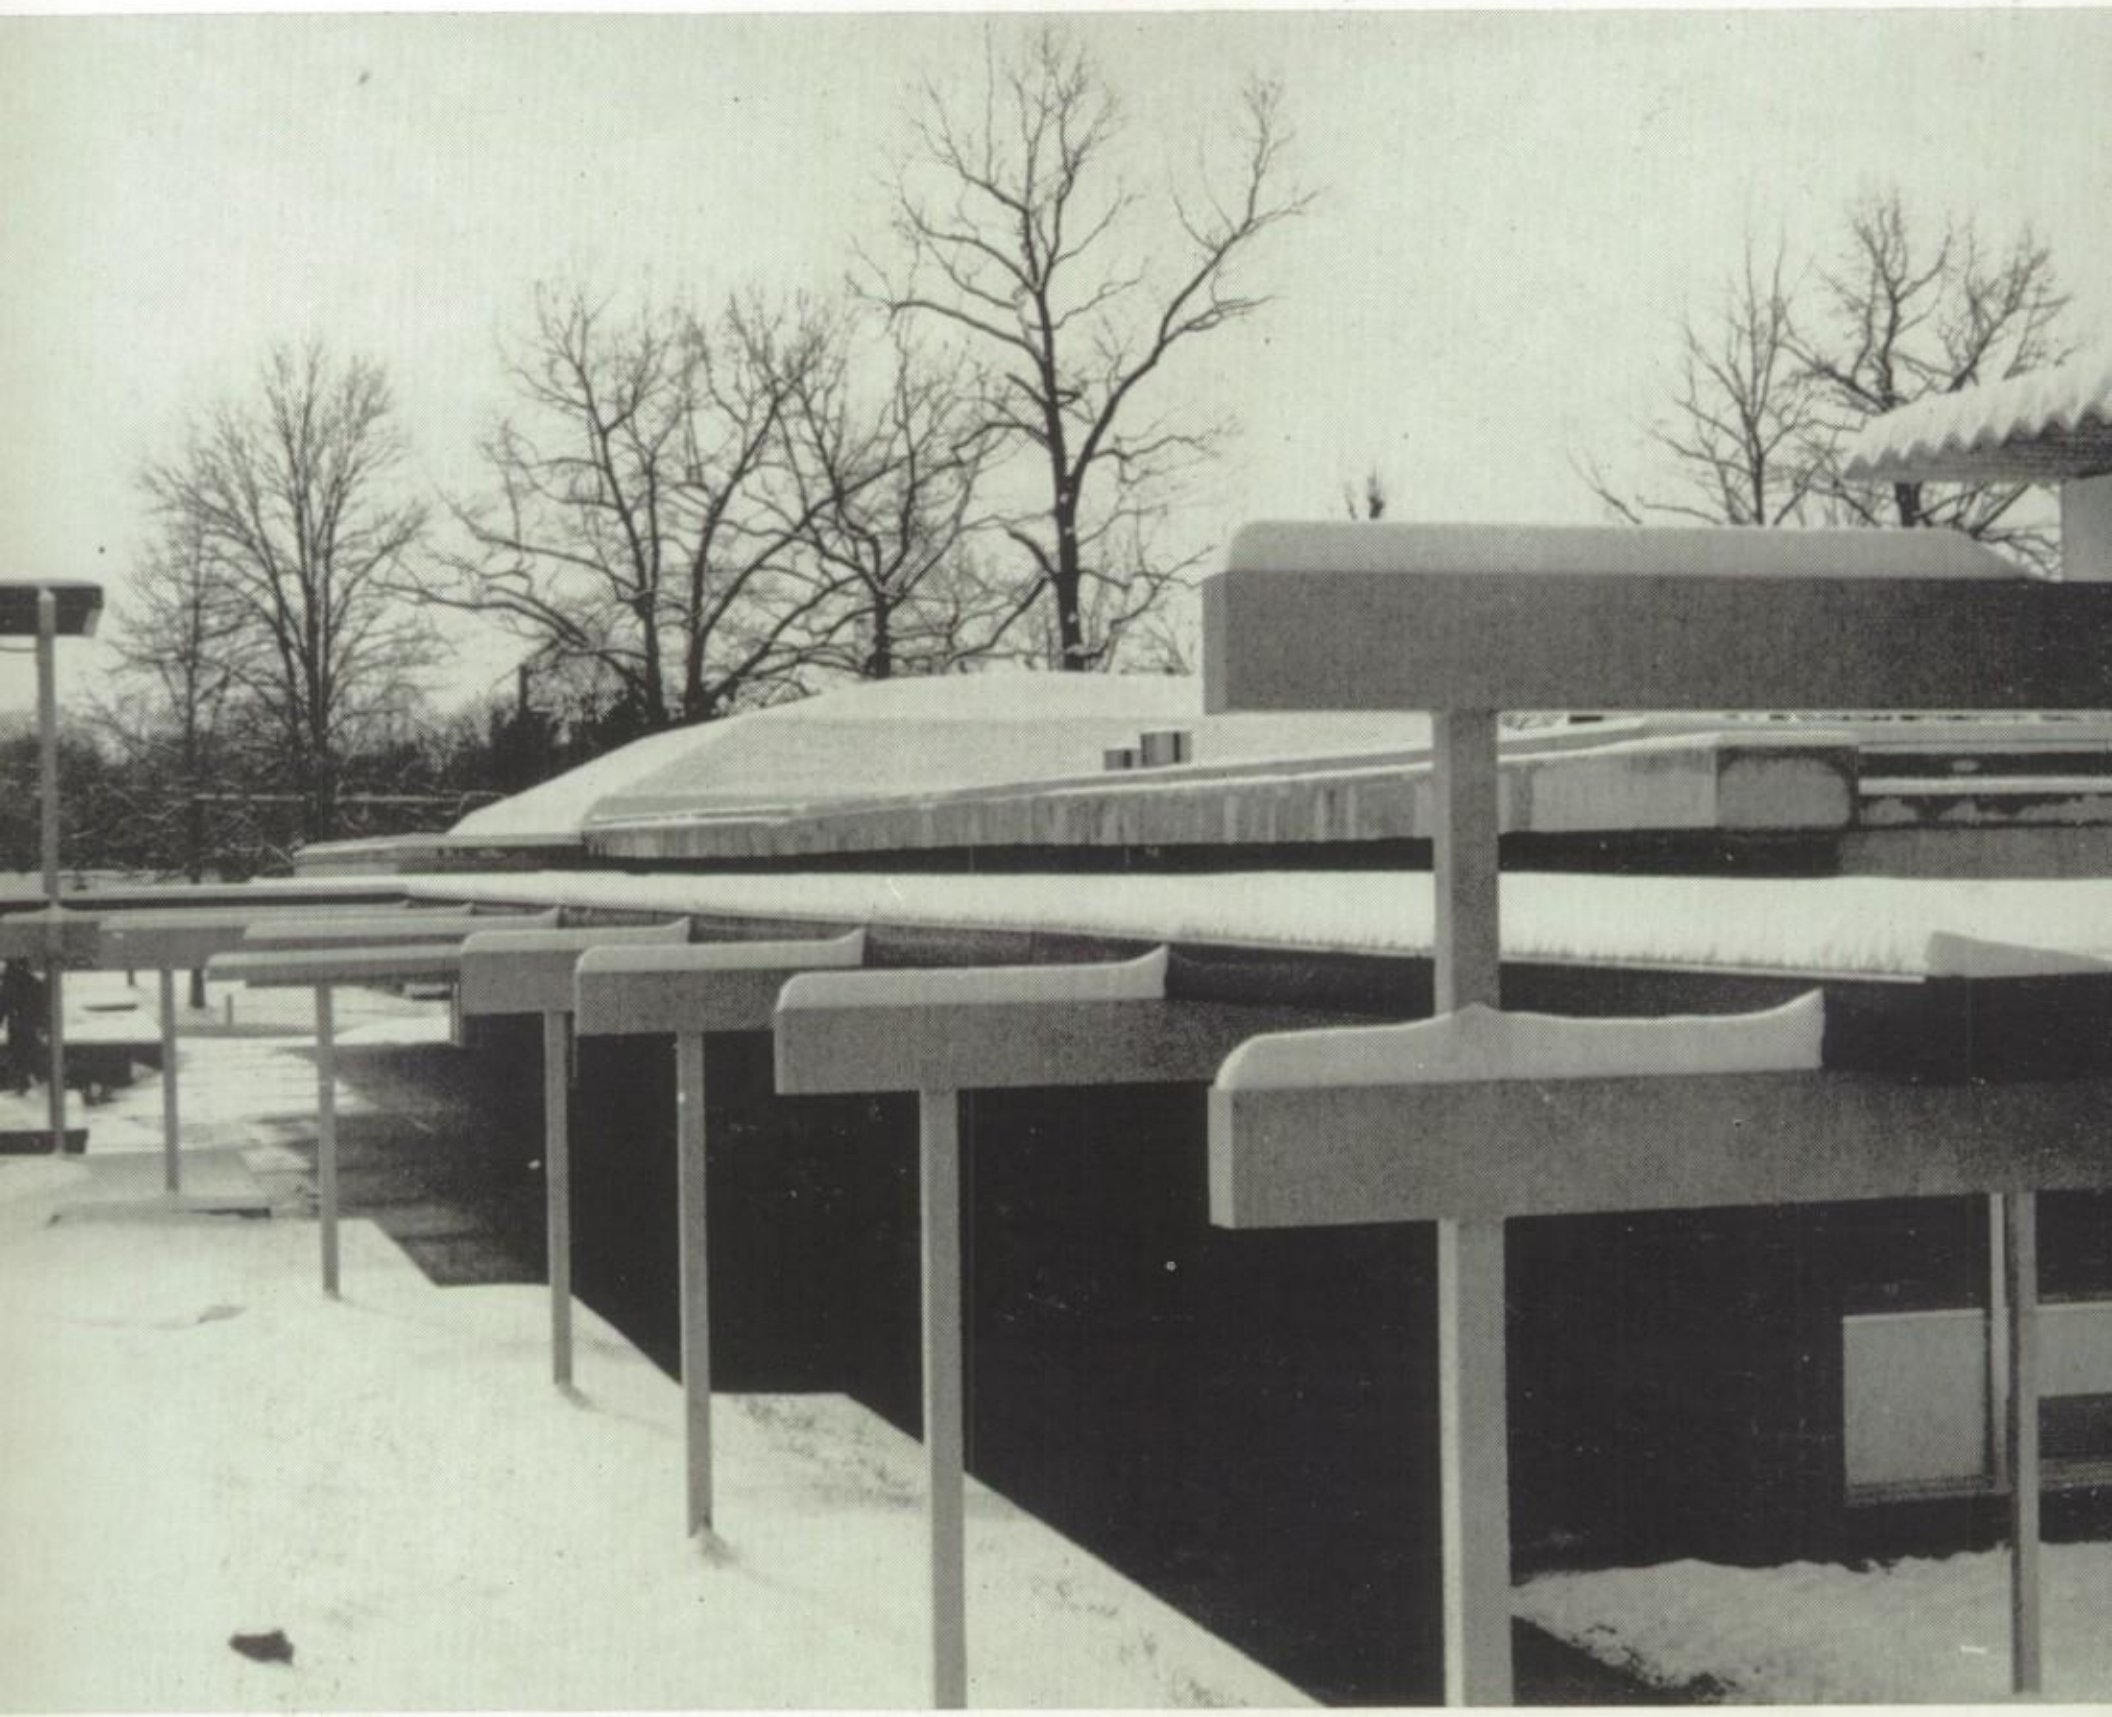
Latin comes alive in amusing and attractive Valentines made by scholars of the difficult language. Karen Engart arranges a bulletin board display.

Advanced Courses Prepare Students For College

Bill Bowman explains the intricacies of the slide rule and the technique in its use to Miss Starnes' trigonometry class.



New Facilities, Qualified Personnel



Playing an active part in the lives of all the students, the modern, well-equipped new library and commercial building provide the students with commodious facilities.

Aiding the students and faculty, the lunchroom staff and janitors remain an essential element of the school.

Adequate Equipment Are Vital To School Operation

Modern equipment enables Patti Clarke and Nancy Cuneo to perfect enunciation of the French language.

Students

What is a common man?
Where is a common Tree? . . .
For everyone bears instant proof
Of its identity.

—Helton

Conversing entirely in French, fourth year French students, Carolyn Schmulling, Mary Hazel Willis, Gail Stevenson, Lesley Brown, Nancy Cuneo, Sandy Shuford, and Patti Clarke serve a meal, and provide entertainment for third year French students.

Learning By Experience Provides Valuable

Taking advantage of the spacious new library and its facilities, students find research material readily available.

Grasping to recall knowledge gained in the past three years of high school, seniors take placement tests in order to determine their scholastic rating among other members of their class.

Receiving the blessings of giving, Mrs. Havnaer's homeroom class sees the Christmas dreams of two underprivileged children fulfilled. Consistent weekly gifts of the students have provided school lunches, shoes and a gala Christmas party for the children.

Knowledge For The Future

Confusion is the order of the day as sophomores experience the frustration of trying to obtain the teachers they prefer for the next school year.

CLASS OF '64

Faced with the transformation to high school life; that unforgetable registration day, the running up and down stars to get to classes on time, the search for leaves and flowers for biology, and most of all, the horror of semester tests; the sophomore class finally emerges from its first year at HHS prepared to look forward, more confidently, to the coming years.

Senior, Terry Lovin, puts to use his knowledge of woodworking by constructing a boat for use on Lake Hickory this summer.

As graduation approaches, Pam Baker is found discussing with Mrs. Sam Hemphill, the college of her choice on College Day.

GREENIES . . . STILL GROWING . . . 'MOST GROWN

Although they bear little resemblance to Hickory High belles now, Janice Belk, Carolyn Shoaf, and Nancy Cuneo, juniors, put finishing touches on decorations for the Jr.-Sr. Prom where they will be hostesses.

Complications in making the butterfly are over, and Bonna Matthews and Sherry Phillips proudly present "Trouble" to their biology class.

Student Council Heads Student Government; Paces

President Kathy Cauble capably presides over a formal business meeting.

Charles Murray, Leslie Brown, and Robin Cilley count the votes and compile the results of Miss Hi Miss election.

Serving as the upper house of student government, the Student Council decides when and where suggestions presented by the faculty and student body can be put into constructive use. Following through on its decisions and putting them into effect, the Council is the final word in student government.

As well as governing student activities, the Council sponsors and supervises many social functions. Homecoming, one of the most cherished events in a treasury of memories, is made more memorable by the Council's efforts in planning the week-end. Publishing football programs, holding open houses, handling elections—every aspect of school life from registration to sanitation, falls under their scrutinizing eye. Like American Democracy in miniature the Student Council stands as the government of the students at H.H.S.

Paul Bock is able to sell quickly his quota of Student Council football programs to enthusiastic fans both young and old.

Main School Activities

Checking schedule cards is one of the Registration Day duties, under Student Council supervision.

Mr. Harrison's selection of class rings is given serious consideration before a permanent design is chosen.

Mr. Cottrell, always willing to help students, advises Jan Keener concerning problems she faces as F.H.A. president and an active member of the Inter-Club Advisory Council.

Heads of all H.H.S. organizations compose the Inter-Club Advisory Council. Serving as an intermediary group between student and faculty, they assemble whenever problems arise pertaining to the school clubs which they represent.

The committee plans the club and social calendar for the entire school year. All H.H.S. clubs are introduced to sophomores by the Inter-Club Advisory Council through orientation. During the year each club is constantly checked for its validity as well as its members' grades.

To tie students closer to their student government, Homeroom Representatives work side by side with the Student Council. They constitute the lower house and strengthen the governing power of the entire body. Assisting with registration, selling football programs, planning Homecoming, and hosting openhouses, Homeroom Representatives act as the right hand of Student Council.

Main duties of the group are lunch line supervision and selection of Students of the Month. This election spotlights a student from each class who works quietly and consistently in the background for school activities.

President Bryan Koon calls for Student of the Month nominations at the Homeroom Representatives meeting.

Homeroom Representatives Choose Students Of Month

Expenditure of dues sent to the National Beta Educational Fund is explained by Brenda Buchanan to the assembly of Beta Club members.

High scholastic rating, leadership, and sound fellowship—is the Beta Club. Serving as a club not of projects but of study, members act as examples for the entire student body by promoting academics throughout the school.

Membership in this club, an honorary society, is highly coveted. To be eligible, students must attain a high academic standing as well as strive to develop personal qualities which will make them outstanding students at H.H.S. Junior members of the club have the privilege of serving as Junior Marshals for the graduation exercises.

Photos And Pens Earn Quill And Scroll Pins

To recognize journalistic excellence on the various staffs of H.H.S., the Quill and Scroll Society was formed not only as a journalistic club, but also as an essential part of H.H.S. activities. The Quill and Scroll annually sponsors the Twirp Dance, the Sock Hop, the Quill and Scroll Banquet, and the Hickory Daily Record Day. Members of the Quill and Scroll participate in editing the community newspaper once a year. Quill and Scroll is but one way in which H.H.S. is able to give proper recognition to journalistically inclined students.

Help yourself to all the food you can eat! Members and guests of Quill and Scroll enjoy the board at their annual banquet.

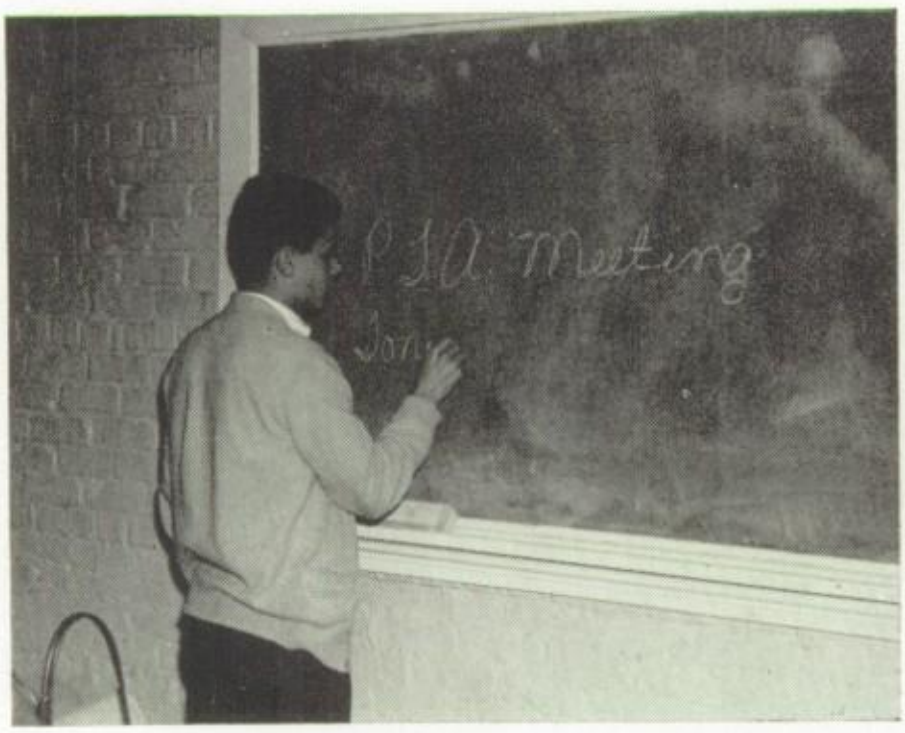
As a reminder for students to encourage their parents to attend a P.T.A. meeting, Robert Little writes an announcement on the bulletin board.



Solicitation of memberships for the Parent Teachers Association is one activity closely following the opening of the school year. P.T.A. Representatives are elected by each homeroom; it is their duty to collect dues and to engender enthusiasm for 100% membership in the P.T.A. by parents.

The representative also acts as a liaison agent, reminding parents to attend meetings and also by reporting the outcome of meetings to homerooms. Showing his interest, he acts as another link in the chain of good relations between parents, teachers, and students.

To bring order out of confusion in the library would be impossible without the aid of library assistants. With literally hundreds of books being checked in and out each day, they quietly and methodically keep everything in place. Stamping and shelving books, taking up permits, and designing bulletin boards, assistants maintain an educational and orderly atmosphere for study. By doing these routine jobs, the student assistants provide the librarian with more time to devote to individual student and teacher needs. Each fall the group takes charge of the library while the librarian teaches the sophomores how to use the library and its facilities for their maximum benefit.

During DeMolay Week, the school receives a new flag and a scholarship is awarded to a deserving senior. Climax of the week's activities is the dance. Through all of its activities this Masonic sponsored organization strives to uphold the outstanding name it has earned in the school and in the community.

Art Club Designs Decorations For Special Events

Interested students, who wish to attain expression and comprehension of art, are afforded the opportunity through membership in the Art Club. Demonstrating proof of the talents of its members, the club constantly provides beautiful displays in the school administration building and on the school bulletin boards. The Art Club has shown further extracurricular enthusiasm by assisting the Student Council in transforming trash cans on the campus into objects of art, and by decorating for dances and the Beauty Contest. A trip to the state Art Museum in Raleigh culminates the year's activities.

As the Homecoming Dance draws near, Mr. Rankin and Janice Belk preside over a meeting of the Art Club and discuss possibilities for decorations.

Preparing pizzas during a long night session, the Editorial Staff takes time off from endless layouts and dummy pages.

Log Wins Again . . .

"LOG—DON'T ENTER WITHOUT KNOCKING!" Behind this sign organized confusion and pressure increase as the deadline date draws near. Following months of preliminary work; writing captions, copy, running heads, and picture taking—final re-writes, re-takes, tabulation of Who's Who and Senior Superlative ballots are made, and the pieces of the giant jigsaw fall into place to form the permanent record of the school year—the 1962 Log.

Keeping a wary eye on the budget, and raising revenue for the yearbook's production, as well as the sale of class pictures and annuals, is the duty of the business staff. Merchants' ads are the backbone of the financial structure and strengthen school-community relations.

To increase their knowledge and to gain fresh ideas, staff members attend C.S.P.A. and S.I.P.A. conventions. As the reward for the hard work put into the 1961 Log, it has received S.I.P.A. first place, N.I.P.A. All-American, and C.S.P.A. Medalist awards.

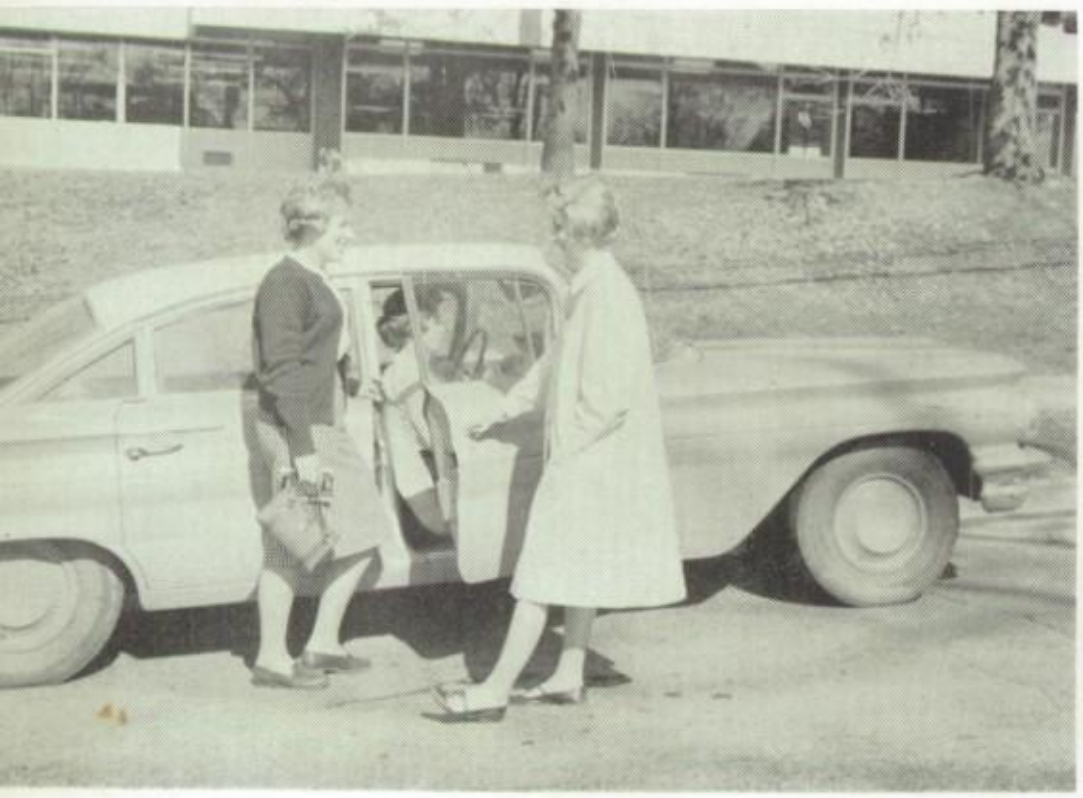
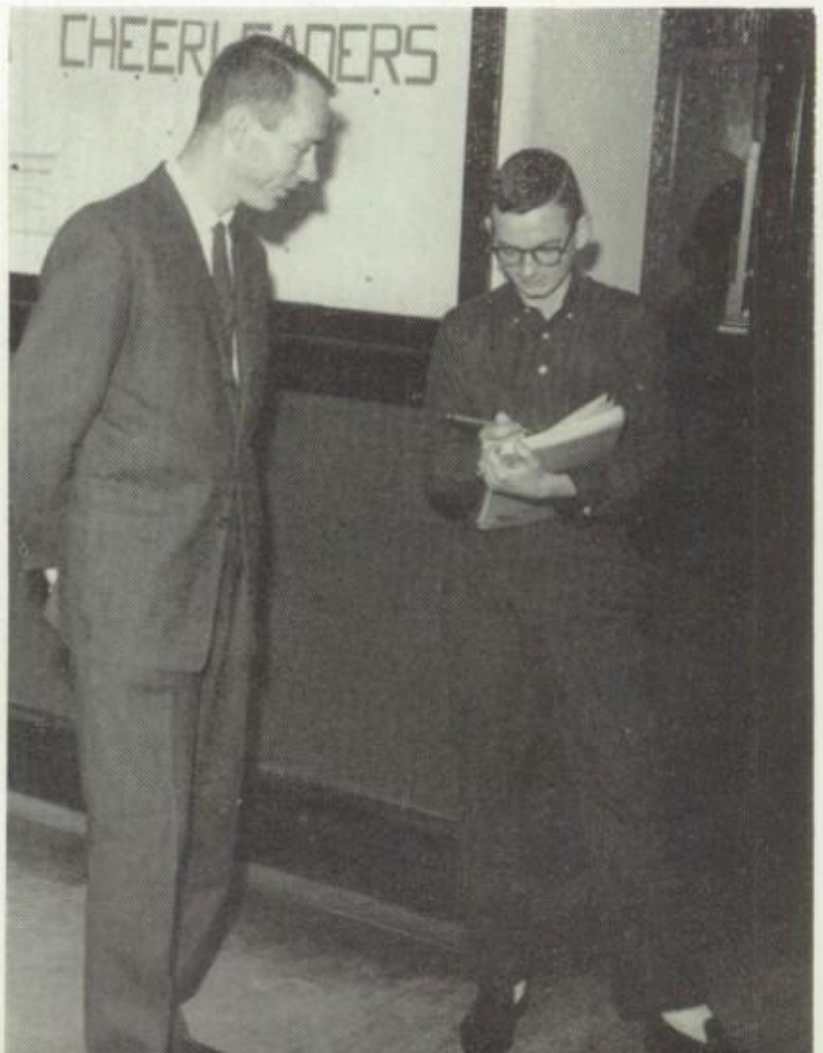
With TWIG in hand, energetic business staffers, Judy Moser, Nancy Carpenter, and Rolaine Vandenburg, prepare to visit city merchants to obtain ads for the TWIG staff.



Momentary interview with Coach Lyerly in the front hall proves to be of assistance to TWIG sports reporter, Danny Coulter.



Bi-Weekly Paper

Twig editorial and business staffs work daily to keep students, teachers, and patrons informed of school activities. The first step in the two-week cycle of editing and publishing the Twig is the assigning of stories to reporters to be written, copy read, and rewritten. The business staff begins by selling ads to school-supporting Hickory merchants. The articles and ads which are to appear in the paper are sent to the printer. Copies of the Twig are then returned to the school. The night before the paper comes out, the business staff meets to fold the papers and to make plans for distribution to the various homerooms, advertisers, and the two junior highs.

Even though long and tedious hours are involved, staff members find that making-up the TWIG has its amusing moments.

Out of six first places in the North Carolina state journalistic competition, the Twig has received four first places, and two second places at Chapel Hill. Top awards received from C.S.P.A. and S.I.P.A., crown a successful year.

Bert Fields decides he will buy a Student Directory when he learns that it has a list of the girls' phone numbers.

Artists of tomorrow, whether literary or graphic, are prompted to use their abilities in the creation of a literary magazine. The Leaves staff assembles a publication representing the efforts of many H.H.S. students. Teachers submit to Leaves their students' best work: short stories, poems, and essays. Material is thoroughly screened by Leaves editors before it is published. This staff also compiles the information for the Student Directory.

Meanwhile the art staff creates the illustrations to accompany the selections in the magazine and designs many posters which advertise the student directories, Log covers, and Leaves.

Each week the Radio staff presents a thirty minute program, "Hickory Hi Speaks." Through this medium the staff brings entertainment and school news to the community. Different aspects of school life are presented as features each week in addition to the week's events.

Delegates are sent to S.I.P.A. and the University of North Carolina Radio Institute in order to improve their news coverage, feature stories, and sale techniques.

The highlight of the year is Radio Day, when staff members take over Radio Station WIRC for one broadcasting day. They sell all the ads and take over the programming of all news, music, and commercials.

With the script before them, Hal Wilson, Earl Dagenhart, and Johnnie Guthrie prepare to go on the air.

"Hickory Hi Speaks" Is Favorite Among H.H.S. Students

Presiding at the monthly meeting, Nancy Lackey introduces the latest F.T.A. filmstrip, which demonstrates new teaching techniques.

Substituting for teachers and serving as guides for the annual N.C.E.A. meeting are only two duties of the Dixon-McComb Chapter of the F.T.A. During a teacher's absence, future teachers experience the daily occurrences of the profession.

Those students interested in teaching as a career are encouraged to benefit from the club's activities in the educational field, cultivate good teaching qualities, and develop leadership. Attending the state convention, the members hear well-known educators and are challenged to teach.

F.H.A. Members Host District Convention

Upholding the tradition of the school's hospitality, the F.H.A. has served as the host for this year's district convention. Arranging for the location of the sessions, welcoming and guiding the delegates, the H.H.S. girls have proved the worth of their F.H.A. training by executing a successful convention.

A member of any homemaking class is invited to join the club to further increase her domestic ability. With true concern for the welfare of others, each girl is able to understand family and community problems through F.H.A. membership.

In a Parisian atmosphere, members of F.H.A. model their own creations for students and parents during the annual fashion show.

Mickey Bowman demonstrates the skill he has learned while working at Hickory Manufacturing under the D.O. program.

Composed of boys who seek to become workers in trade, the Diversified Occupations Club works to maintain understanding between employers in the community and the students. The interests and aims of the members are furthered by allowing the students to carry half the academic load so that they can hold a part-time job during school hours. To help the employers understand the principles and functions of the club clearly, a Bosses' Banquet is given annually in cooperation with the Distributive Educations Club. At the Vocational Industrial Club Convention of North Carolina, the H.H.S. club interchanges ideas with other clubs and learns about their programs.

Making the twentieth anniversary of Distributive Education at H.H.S., special recognition was given to the H.H.S. program. At this Western District convention, the group from H.H.S. was also given the opportunity to enter competitions in job interviewing and public speaking.

Through the Distributive Education program, students are able to spend part of each school day working in local business concerns. In this way, students who do not intend to go to college, receive practical job training. In the half-day school program they receive extensive study in selling and merchandising.

D.E. Helps Students Through Work Experiences

Sub-Junior initiates are eyed suspiciously as they begin their promenade around the school.

Initiation Day focuses attention on bizarrely dressed Sub-Junior initiates. However, all Sub-Junior activities are not comical. This civic organization, under the sponsorship of the Hickory Junior Woman's Club, serves the community. During the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons, needy families are given food and clothing. Combining the proceeds from the annual Powder Bowl game and the Sub-Junior Dance, the club awards a one hundred dollar scholarship to a worthy Ridgeview girl. Also included among their projects is a candy sale to raise money for the care of mentally retarded children.

Key Clubbers Give Children Christmas Toys

Community, as well as school, is given service through Key Club projects and activities. A Kiwanis sponsored organization, the club instills in its members a sense of duty to community and school, and leadership in both.

Christmas is made a happy holiday for unfortunate children of the community. With food and toys the Key Club plays Santa. The school also receives gifts from these boys. A much needed trophy rack has been presented to H.H.S. Through its activities, the Key Club endeavors to serve the present and to prepare its members to meet the future needs of the community.

Hickoryites hear the familiar knock of Key Clubbers as they canvass the city selling candy to increase their funds.

Chorus Concerts Popular With

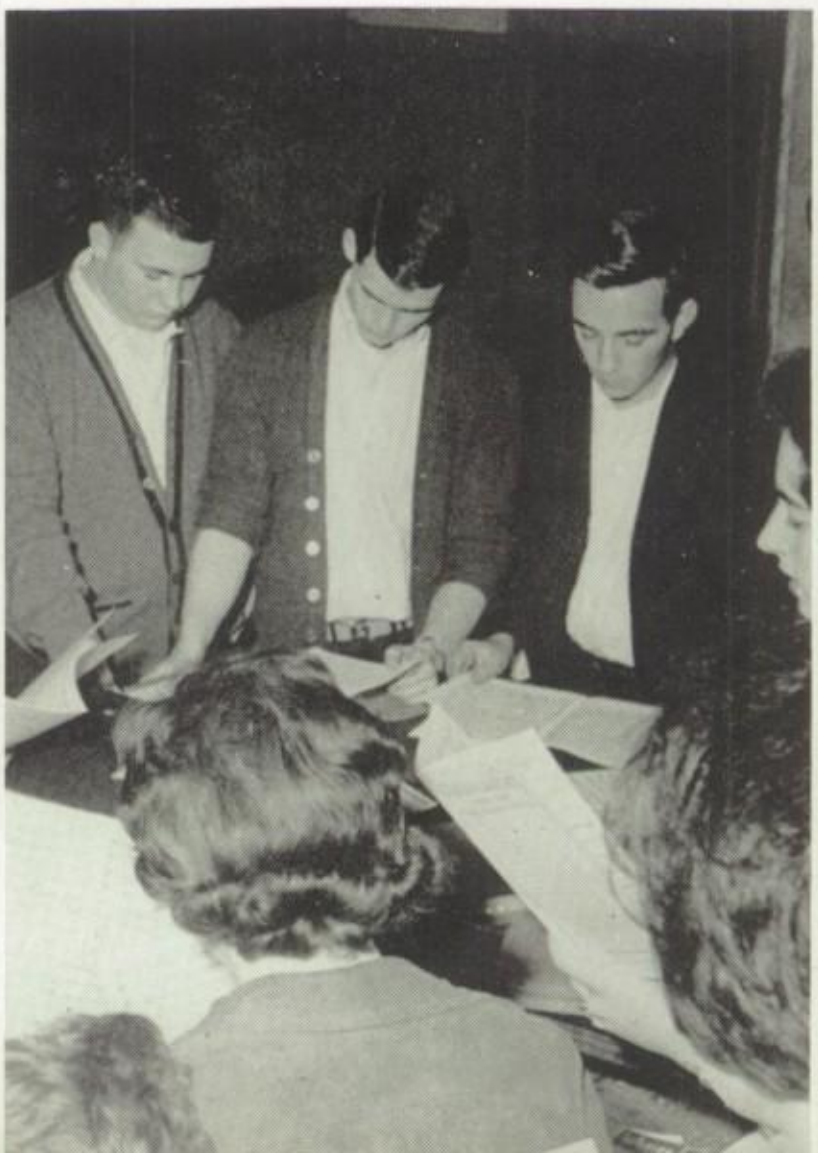
Mr. Ellis, chorus director, gives the widely-acclaimed H.H.S. chorus its pitch to begin their daily rehearsal.

Singing for experience as well as for pleasure, the mixed chorus of H.H.S. strives to use the given talent of voice. High ratings are the reward for their diligent practice, both during the regular fourth period class and during special practice sessions at night. Ratings are achieved by promoting tone, rhythm, and vocal production and by accepting nothing less than perfection in choral numbers. In order to improve their skills, the chorus attends several choral workshops during the course of the year, including one at Mars Hill College and another one in Asheville.

When its musical selections have been perfected, the chorus offers its services to the community: singing for various schools, churches, and civic organizations. These performances are in great demand by Hickoryites, who appreciate the quality and perfection of Chorus concerts.

As the chorus sings Christmas numbers from the auditorium balcony, traditional Christmas activities are portrayed on the stage below.

Practicing the numbers which they will use, a select group of chorus members prepare for the Mars Hill choral workshop.



Hickory's Students And Residents

In addition to these, several formal concerts are given each year and special numbers by the Chorus enrich the Baccalaureate and Graduation exercises.

The Chorus attends various contests throughout the state. Each year, under the baton of its capable director, it participates in the North Carolina state contest for mixed choruses and small ensembles. The H.H.S. Chorus has made an admirable record for itself by receiving high contest ratings and by adding new achievements to its record. The Chorus, not only enriches the school and community with its concerts, but also brings honor to them through its high ratings and achievements.

Special beauty is added to the Christmas Concert by Salonge Anderson, Louis Duncan, Tanya Michels, and Lewis Quinn, accompanied by Mr. Ellis.

Whether playing "Dixie" at a pep rally or Bach at a formal concert, school pride soars each time the H.H.S. Band performs. Students display their high esteem for the Band by standing and cheering when it plays at the football games.

The Band represents one phase of the broad music program at H.H.S. It strives to encourage musical interest in the school and community. Members participate in both the concert and marching bands. Thus they are able to develop their appreciation for classical, popular and martial music. The Band is also divided into small ensembles which provide a means for further experience.

Daily practices during sixth period are supplemented by extra afternoon and evening rehearsals. Twirling, strutting, and signaling demand many post-school hours of the drum major and majorettes in order to insure perfection in public performances.

Before school opens in September the strains of band music are heard coming from the pre-school practice sessions.

As a result of these long hours of drill and timing exercises, the Band has won an excellent rating at the Bristol Marching Contest. For the first time, the drum major won an award, placing second.

The H.H.S. band participated this year in the State Music Festival, and acquitted itself with distinction.

Striving to improve the student's concentration and ability to solve non-verbal problems, the club also furthers student appreciation of tournament Chess. During the monthly meetings students enjoy the game at the homes of the members.

Through correspondence with previously organized clubs, in schools in the surrounding area, the H.H.S. club joins with others in stimulating an interchange of ideas and in encouraging the organization of new clubs. Only one among many of the new organizations at H.H.S. this year, the Chess Club shows promise of being a new adventure for inquisitive minds.

Dedicated to the safety of their passengers, H.H.S. bus drivers chalk up an enviable safety record. To insure their capabilities, driver applicants undergo strenuous class work and exacting road tests, supervised by state and county officials. After passing the tests and taking over their buses, drivers are required to compile monthly state reports.

Not only do they have the responsibility of insuring safe passage to and from school for students depending on bus service, but drivers must also preserve discipline and order on their buses. They must meet the daily schedule of rising early to cover their routes before classes begin. Their return trip completes a long day late in the afternoon.

Waiting for their buses to load, drivers gather for a few minutes before starting their homeward routes.

With tension barriers mounting all over the world, the Spanish Club endeavors to gain more complete knowledge of the Latin American countries. Writing pen letters to Spanish speaking students demonstrate the desire of club members to understand the Latin American people and to improve foreign relations.

Staging the annual candy sale, the organization finances the Senior Scholarship. Chosen for grades, character, initiative, and personality, the scholarship is awarded to a deserving senior to further his study of Spanish.

Latin Club Attends High Mass At Belmont Abbey

Disproving the adage that Latin is a "dead language," the Latin Club brings alive Roman culture and relates it to the modern world. Thus the members make Latin a "living language" and arouse new enthusiasm for Latin study. Attending High Mass at Belmont Abbey has enabled club members to appreciate ecclesiastical Latin in modern usage. Not a money-making group, but an honorary organization, the Latin Club includes only second year students of high scholastic standing. Their intellectual caliber is exemplified by the fact that the H.H.S. club swept the field of awards at the state convention in Chapel Hill.

Fascinated by a new and different experience, a little girl listens intently as the Latin Club members sing Christmas carols.

Bill McFadden announces that "Labor Unions" will be the second semester topic for the energetic H.H.S. debators.

In the experimental stage, the H.H.S. Debating Club resolves to encourage public speaking and to develop spontaneous reasoning ability. The debators learn to organize their thoughts, to condense material, to respond quickly, and to impress an audience.

Topics for the year's debates are capital punishment and labor unions. These subjects are debated before history classes and also in practice debates with other schools. Thus, a large percentage of the student body comes in contact with the work of the debators. Interest in the club is developing rapidly in the school.

Working together toward a greater knowledge of science, Chemistry Club members learn more about the scientific world. Students taking chemistry with the intent to further their studies are invited into this body of science enthusiasts.

Along with the students' experimentations, meetings also help the career-minded members. Physicians, technologists, and engineers from area firms and institutions discuss their respective vocations at the monthly sessions. The Chemistry Club proves to be an asset to the H.H.S. science department.

Potato Chip Sales Furnish Funds For Junior French Club

Serving as co-workers with the Senior French Club, members of the Junior French Club help to sponsor all Senior Club projects. Composed of juniors and sophomores taking second year French, the membership participates in the bi-annual potato chip sales. With the profits from these successful sales, it is possible to help sponsor the American Field Service program. Also, through these funds an International Weekend is held in the spring, and visual aids are purchased for classroom use. While achieving these ends, members are constantly learning more about France through the stimulating monthly meeting programs.

Radiating the warmth of the yuletide season, members of the French Club bring Christmas cheer to the H.H.S. faculty, as they sing French carols.

Coaches Inject Vigor And Know-How For Victories

Maintaining that moral stamina and physical fitness are beneficial to all students, academically as well as athletically, the coaches at H.H.S. guide hundreds of students through victories and losses with untiring vigor. Many are unaware of the extraordinary patience and undying love for the sport that is required to produce a first class team. In addition to their regular teaching schedules, the coaches devote many long hours to scouting games, perfecting plays, supervising practices, and developing special skills in individual team members.

Learning by precept can be accomplished in no finer way than through men who instill in the young men and women under their guidance the qualities of sportsmanship, competitive fair play, and teamwork.

Exuding pep, the cheerleaders teach, drill, and praise the student body in school yells. Acting as a catalyst, they stimulate enthusism in the student body, which in turn transmits its excitement to the grandstand crowd. Hickory High's well-publicized teams are no accident. Cheerleaders schedule pep rallies and make game announcements. Demonstrating their school patriotism, they see that the "Stars and Stripes" are raised and lowered daily. Student interest is stirred by the ingenuity and variety of the main bulletin-board displays sponsored by the group.

A cheerleader must be special. She must be able to work with a close-knit group and she must, above all, exemplify to the student body, good sportsmanship, citizenship, and conduct.

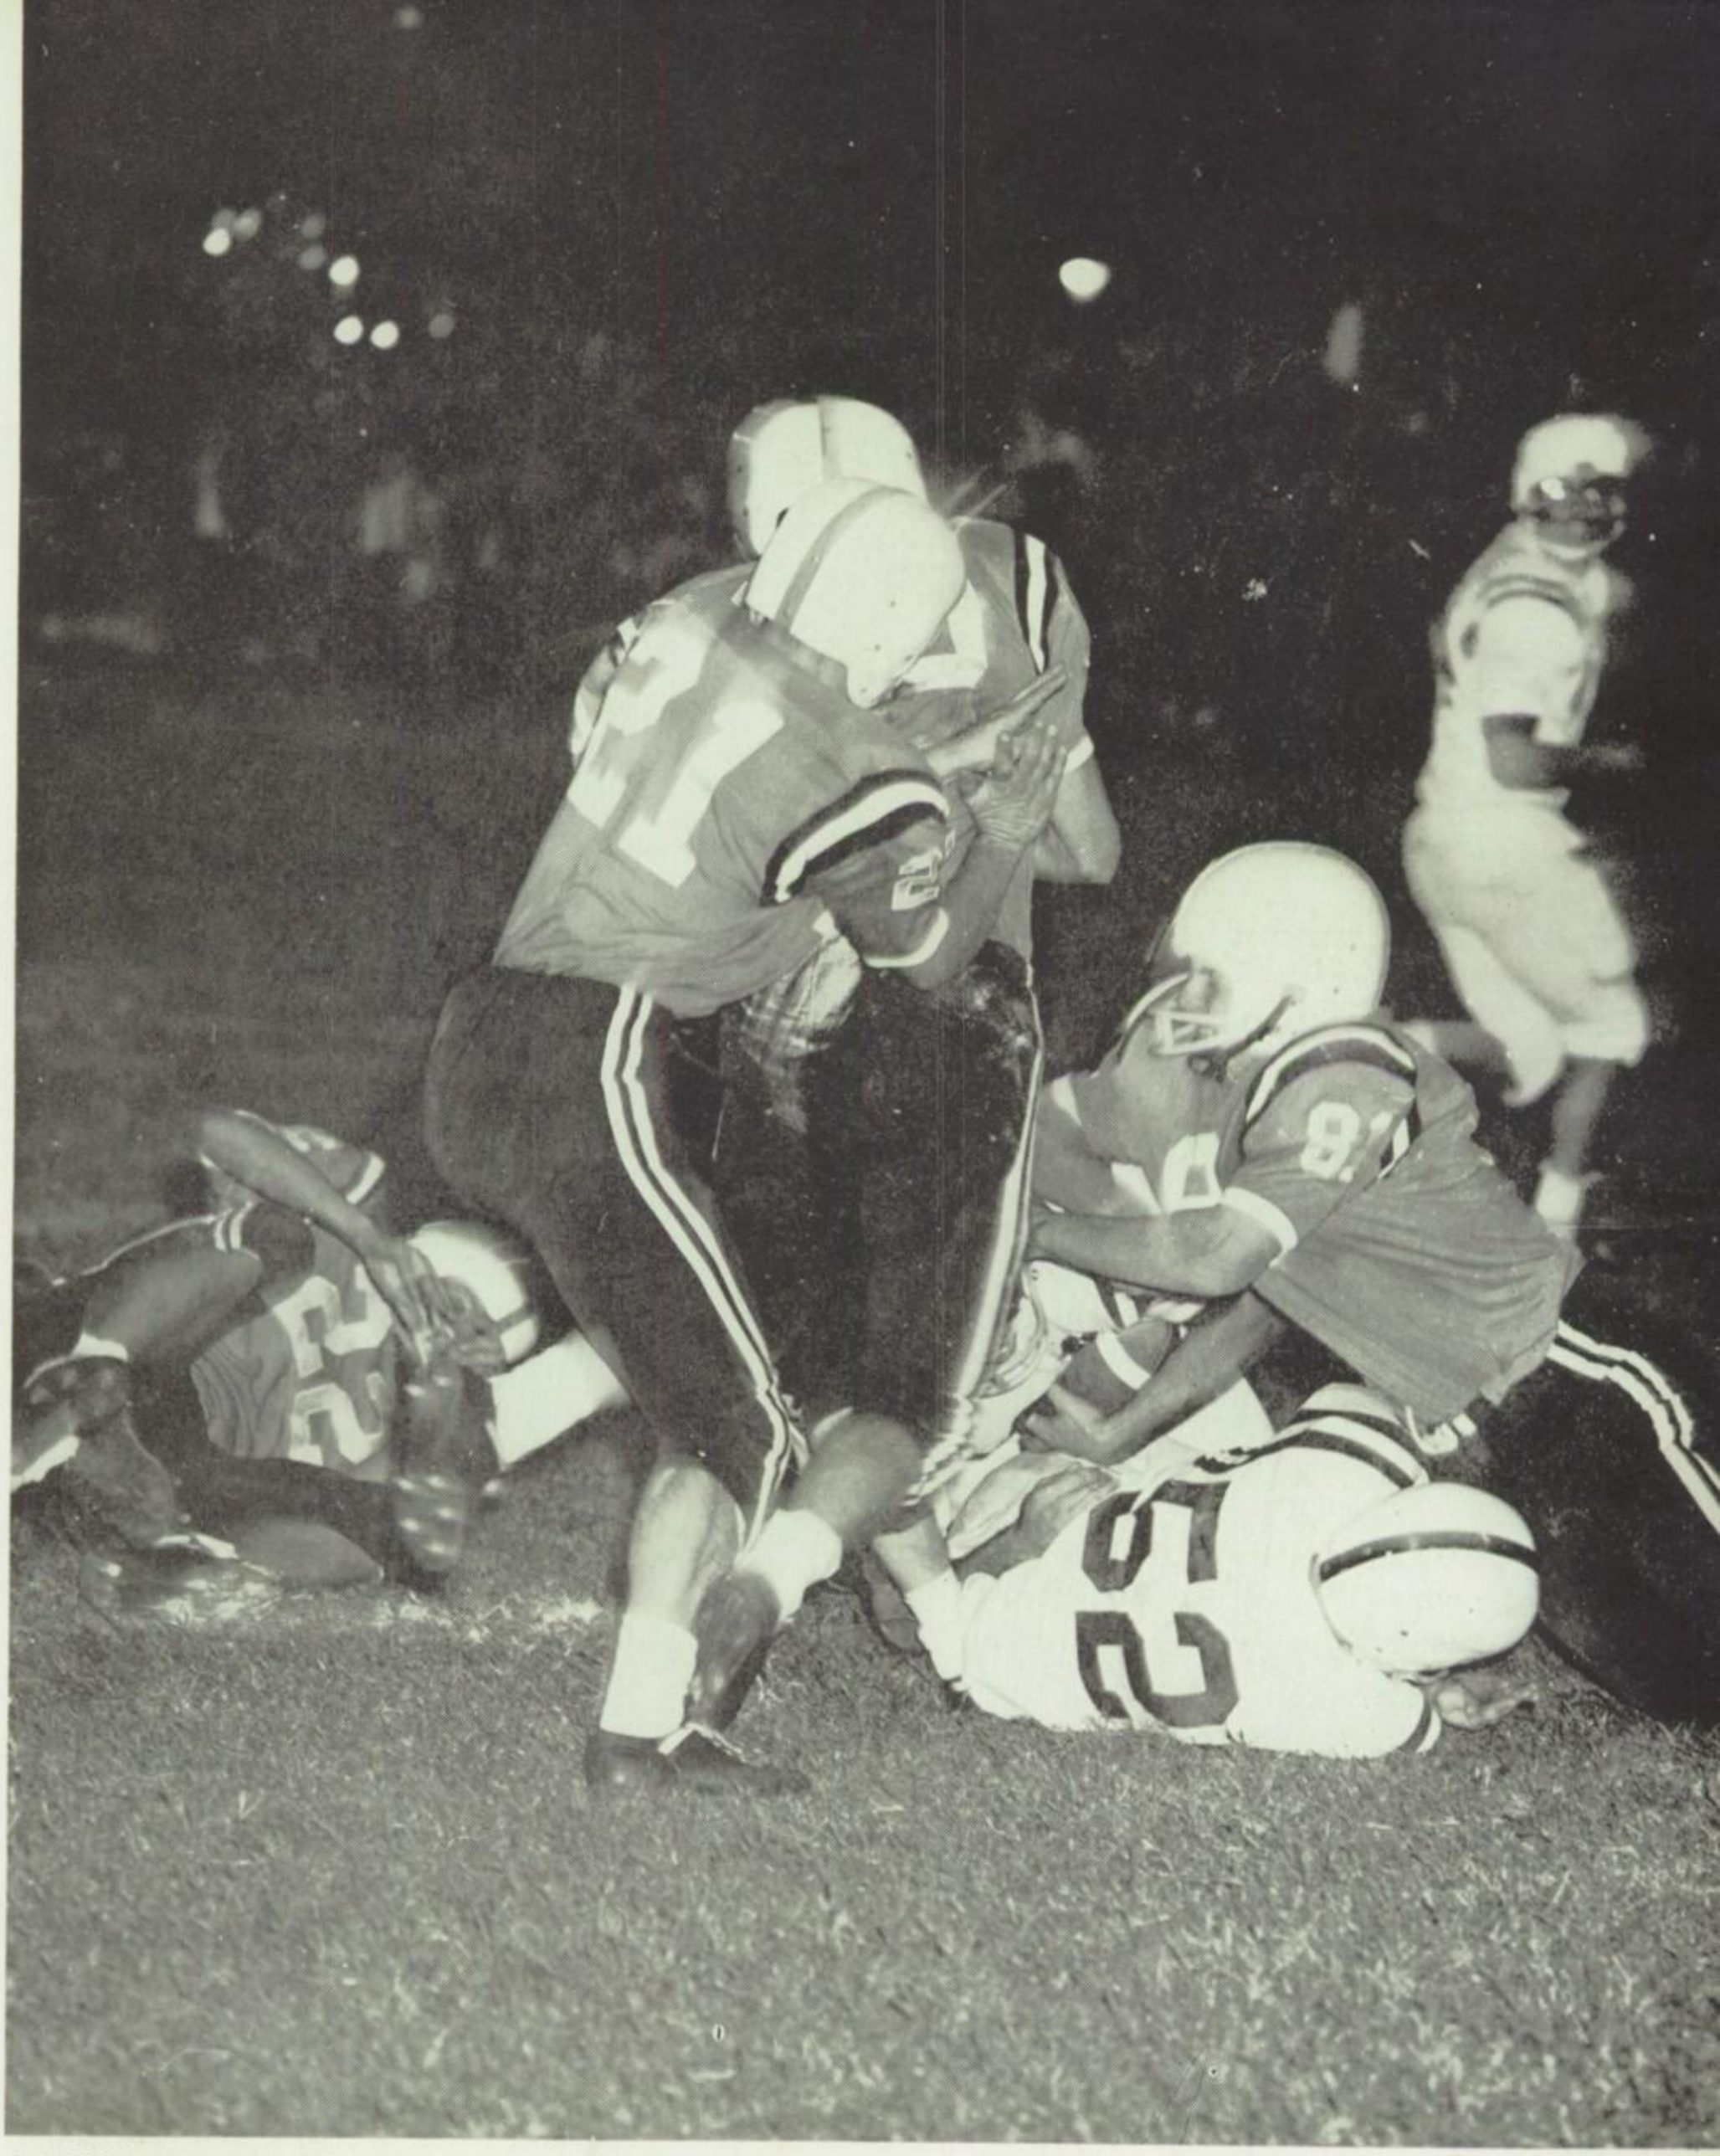
Record Crowd Witnesses Morganton-Hickory Battle

The scoring record for the North Carolina High School Activities Association, set in 1927 by Pinky James, was broken by Eddie Barger, vaulting the '62 team into history. Barger, number 22, ran his record-breaking touchdown against Newton-Conover. He was named to Scholastic Magazine's All-State team, voted Most Valuable Player, given a berth in the High School All-American Football team, All-Southern and All-Conference teams, and selected to play in the Shrine Bowl. Barger led the team in scoring with a season record of 196 points.

Eddie Barger, H.H.S.'s fleet halfback, pushes for extra yardage while breaking past a threatening tackle.



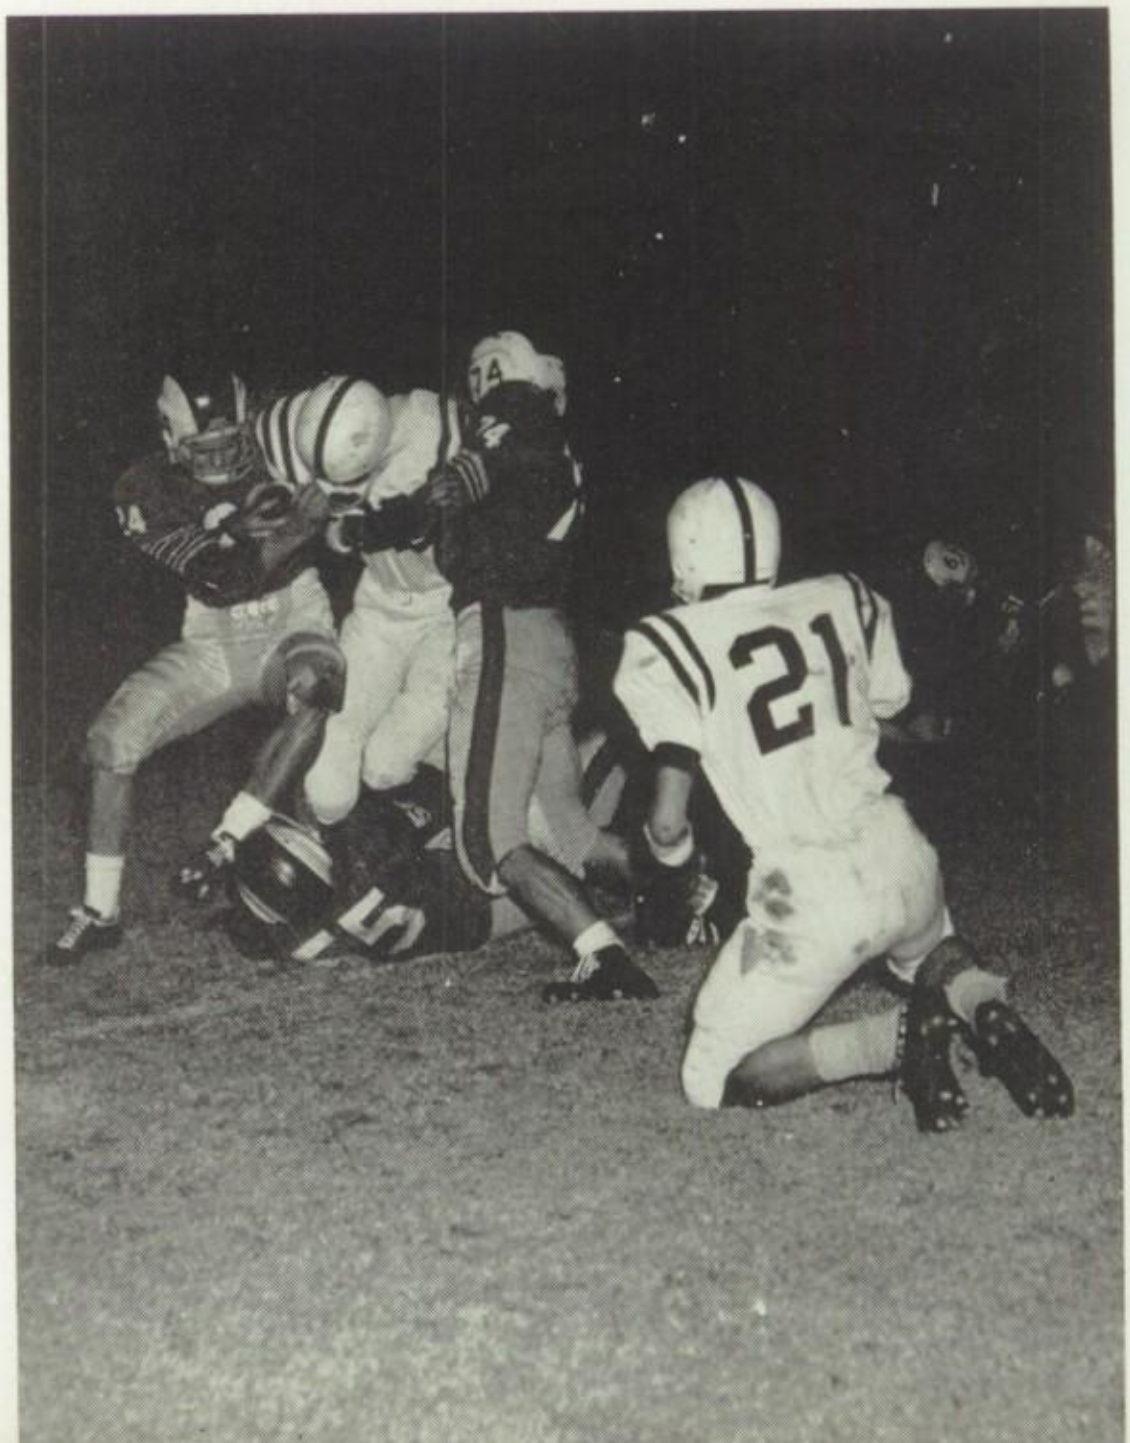
An H.H.S. player is stopped without a gain, as "52," Wally Stepp, tries to lead interference through the defensive line.

Bobby Lail plows through a strong defensive line as more Tornadoes bring down opposing tacklers.

Team Members Capture All-State,

These seniors were not the only stars given recognition. Player of the week awards were presented to several sophomore, junior, and senior squad members. Having an opportunity to share in honors boosted the morale of the lower classmen and created a mutual understanding among the H.H.S. team members.

Defensive power, offensive strength, complete co-operation, unending faithfulness, and constant encouragement by coaches, were the contributing factors that created the co-champions of the Northwestern Conference—the H.H.S. Red Tornadoes.



Despite strong opposition from Mooresville defense, Ronald Jones gains a first down before being tackled by his opponents.

Carrying out a well executed end swing, made possible by a strong offense, Eddie Barger adds another six points to Hickory's score.

-Southern, -American Titles

With a capacity crowd, a memorable game was played in Kannapolis between the Hickory Tornadoes and the Mooresville Blue Devils. Hickory lost by a score of 13-12 but was able to maintain its crown as '62 co-champs of the Northwestern A.A.A. Conference.

With consistent teamwork and unusual abilities developed, the boys were welded into a surprisingly powerful unit. Stars were made, records were broken, experiences exchanged, and Hickory High School produced, once again, a championship football team.

Despite hindering illnesses, the Hickory High Tornadoes were paced by several capable returnees who, joined with some spirited Juniors, ranked second in the Northwestern Conference. Many points were racked and many players received recognition as a by-product of the team's precision coordination.

The team's surging power and inexhaustible energy instilled enthusiasm with each consecutive game. Though victories were mingled with defeats, the Tornado cagers exemplified a determined spirit throughout the entire season.

Receiving a final word from referees, Durwood Markham and Nat Noell, Tornado co-captains, meet the Newton-Conover High captains.

Hickory's Durwood Markham has a tussle with two Wilkes Central players over the recovery of the ball after a jump shot.

Tommy Deal makes a valiant attempt to recover the rebound for Hickory from a Wilkes Central team member.

With a loss only to Marion the H.H.S. baseball team had a victorious slate of encounters. Five outstanding members of the team, Durwood Markham, Jimmy Sweezy, Eugene Isenhour, Brent Keever, and Ronnie Bumgarner were rated All-Conference.

Brent Keever, for the third consecutive year, led in batting with a .500 average. High batting averages and All-Conference players constituted a near perfect season for Hickory High's baseball team.

Brief time between innings gives players the opportunity to refresh dry lips and tired limbs.

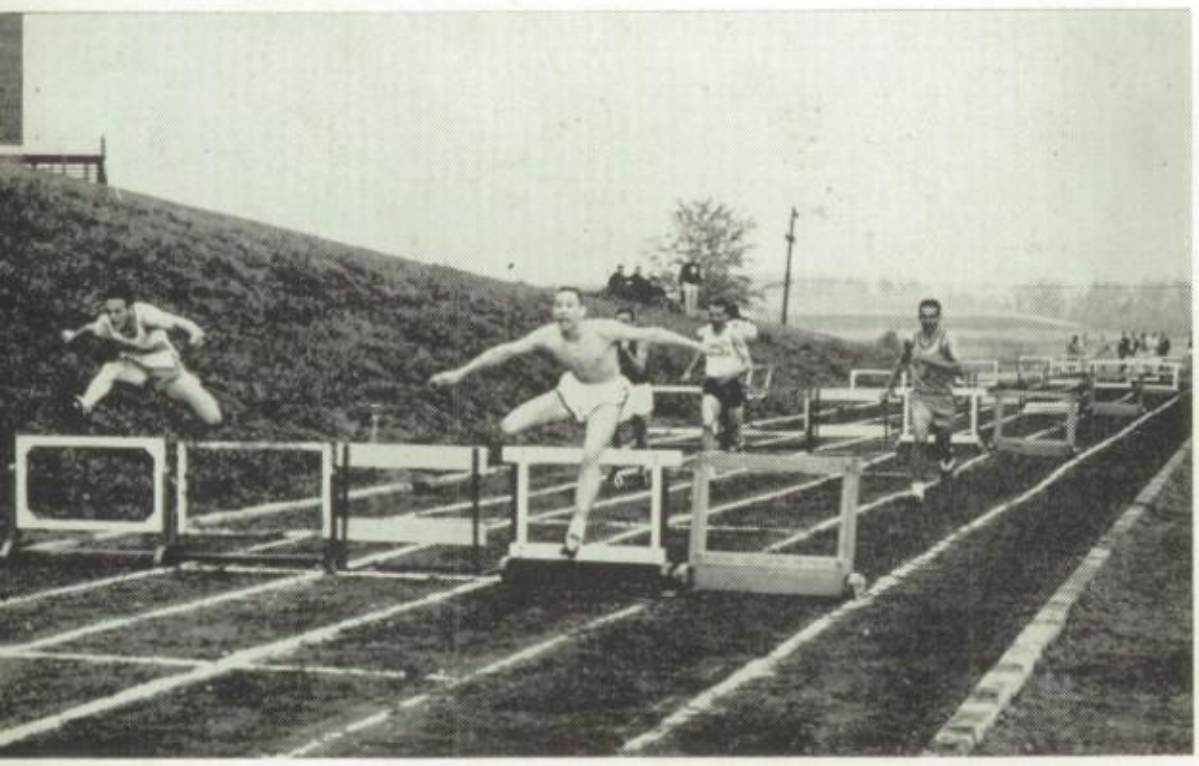
Spring, with its cool breezes and warming temperatures, revitalizes spirits and brings many more sports into the school picture. This is the time of the year when tennis courts are jammed, golf greens putted on, and track fields are infiltrated. Old and new students try their skills at shot put, pole vault, discus throw, low hurdles, and various jumps and dashes.

Winning Season

Jimmy Hasty's powerful form comes through in a forehand drive.

Heading down the home stretch, Eddie Barger takes the last hurdle with great ease.



In the past, the spring sports have been rather overshadowed, but this year at H.H.S. they have come alive with enthusiastic participants. More emphasis has been placed on the spring sports resulting in better records, more participation, and new followers. The desire to win has driven the teams into often unexpected victories and led them through a more successful season.

Bill Hall and Ricky Harrison exert their last ounce of energy to overtake a leading competitor.

For Track, Turf, And Racket Men

Under the competent coaching of Mr. Jim Garrett, golfers improve their drives. After long hours of practice on the local courses, David Harrison, Jack Sides and Farell Hunt, with two years of experience, led the team as low scorers. New members, Tommy Costner, Richard Allison, and Chuck Turnbull also helped swing the 1961 H.H.S. team through a victorious season.

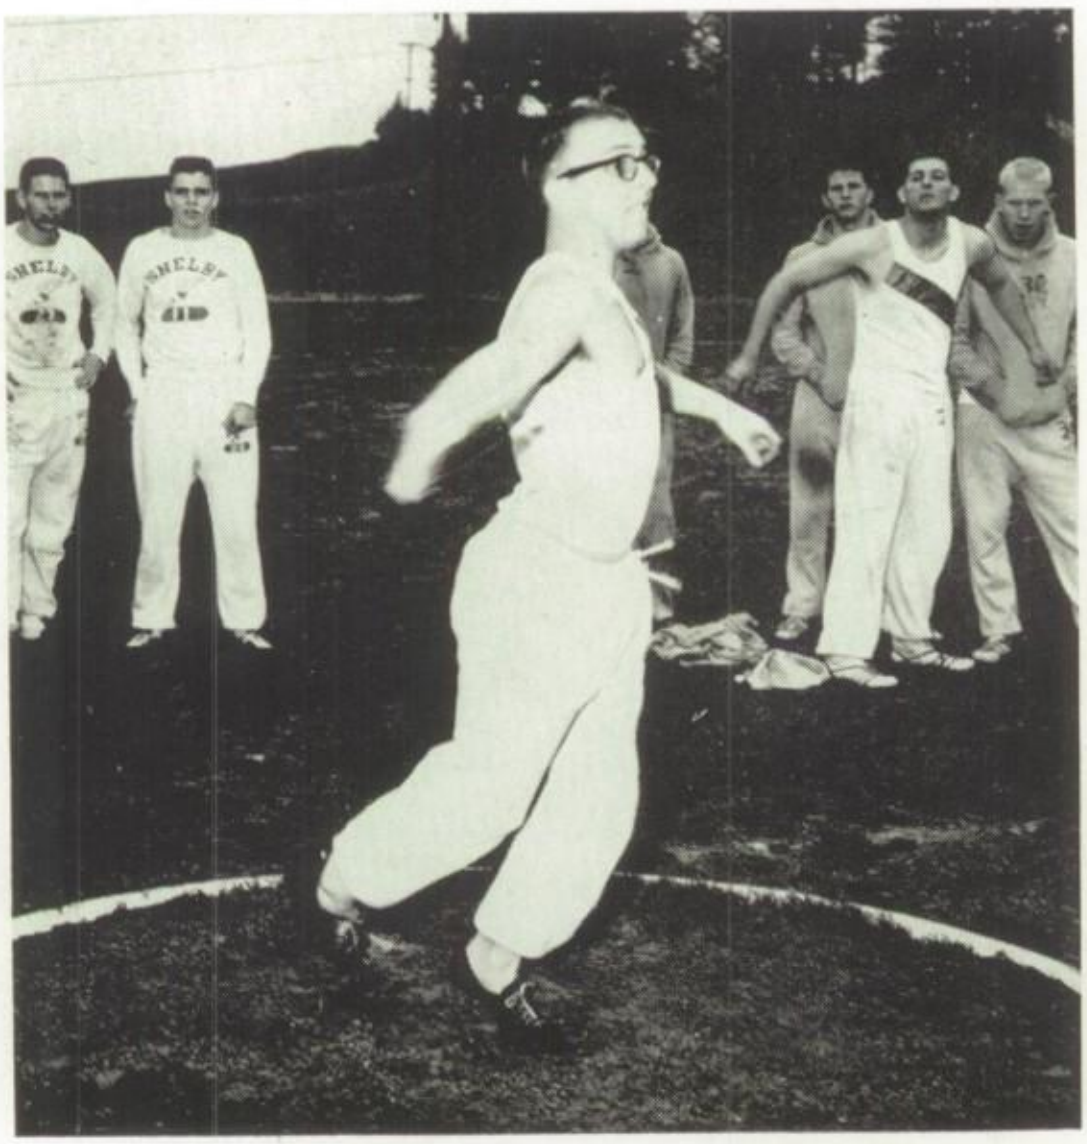
Spirits Revitalized—Spring Sports Reign



With the arrival of spring, the tennis courts fill and the H.H.S. team practice sessions get underway. Sparked with determination after the numerous defeats of the previous year, this year's season was victorious. Playing number one man, Jimmy Hasty was H.H.S.'s most outstanding player. However, Johnny Bason was the high scorer, finishing the season with sixteen points. The team finished with a successful overall record of nine wins and three losses.

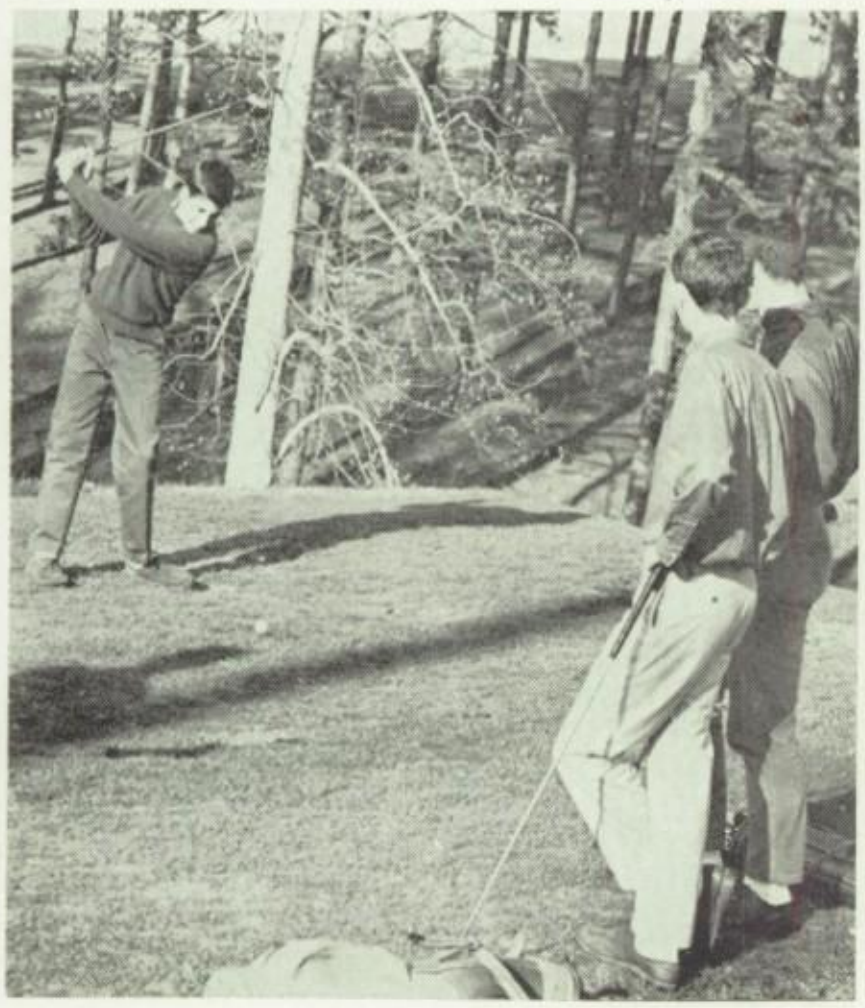
Hickory High's Terry Sims amazes fellow trackmen with his perfect distance form.

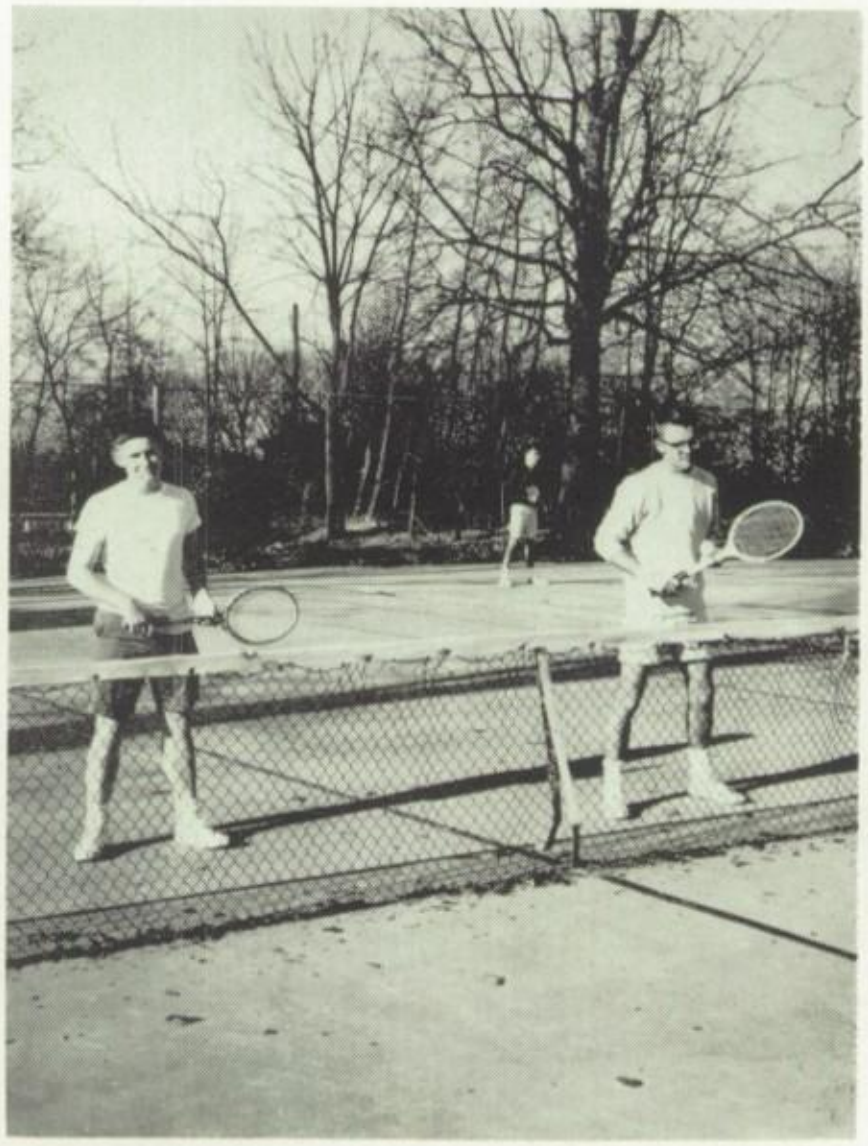
With a five and one record for the season, Hickory High's track team concluded one of its best performances in recent years. By setting a new state track record for the 120 yard high hurdles, Ray Hoke gained recognition for H.H.S.'s cindermen. The team not only participated in local meets, but also took part in a regional track meet at Davidson. Coaches were proud, boys lettered, and H.H.S. added another winning season to its record.

Exerting a final burst of energy, Glen Morrison proves his ability in the running broad jump.

Spring Sports Wind Up Athletic Season

Championship style is demonstrated by Chuck Turnbull as he drives, while Richard Allison and Tommy Costner look on.





Jimmy Hasty and Buzzy Frye approach the net to welcome their opponents to the H.H.S. courts.

Seniors Grow Sentimental Remembering H.H.S. Years

"Pomp and Circumstance" epitomizes graduation as Patti Clarke, Chief Marshal, conducts graduates into the exercises.

Friends and relatives throng to the P. E. Monroe Auditorium and linger to admire the new "sheep skins" of 1961 H.H.S. Alumni.

Many thoughts raced through the minds of the Seniors of 1961 as they walked down that long aisle on graduation night. For graduation marked an end to the years of study—twelve long years that now seemed painfully short. The years that saw each of them evolve from a kid in grammar school; through the awkward in-between stage of junior high; until the long-awaited high school years were reached. As the line inched forward, all the things which had meant "high school" paraded through their minds. Cheering the football team, spend-the-night parties, Powder Bowl Games, pep rallies, the Lower Gate, the Beauty Contest, going steady, College Boards, finding a parking place after lunch, working feverishly on extracurricular activities, beach trips, Junior-Senior, the "Twist," Senior Week—to them, all these things and a hundred more had combined to make the high school years an unforgettable experience.

Miss Lena Greever, Beta Club advisor, gives the Junior Marshals a preliminary briefing on graduation night procedure.

While Receiving Diplomas

Under-graduates are envious, oldsters are nostalgic, as they wait for the graduating Seniors to say good-bye.

Practice, "the big wait," begins as Seniors swelter in their gowns and unaccustomed head gear.

"The Millionaire," Jeff Murray, adjusts vest as Arthur Burgess reaches for "the pause that refreshes" immediately before show time.

With responses of laughter and applause from both actors and audience, George Prevette, Jeff Murray, Robert Whitlock, and Clara Reese present "The Millionaire."

Enthusiasm, co-operation, and talent—these qualities combined to make the Senior Class Play, "The Millionaire," an overwhelming success for all participating actors.

"Millionaire" Draws Large Crowd And Much Laughter

Flashing homburg, spats, and umbrella, Arthur Burgess demonstrates that "clothes are the mark of the man"; Sandra Cline is unimpressed.

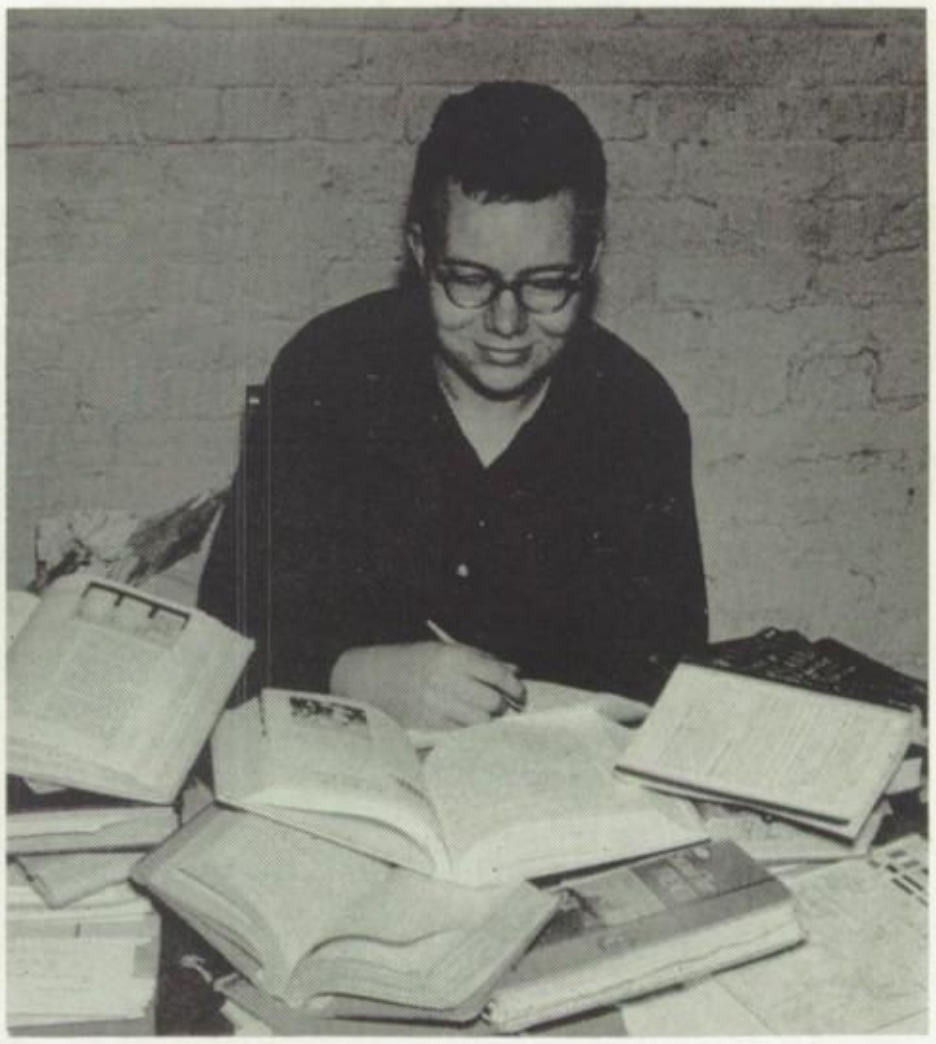
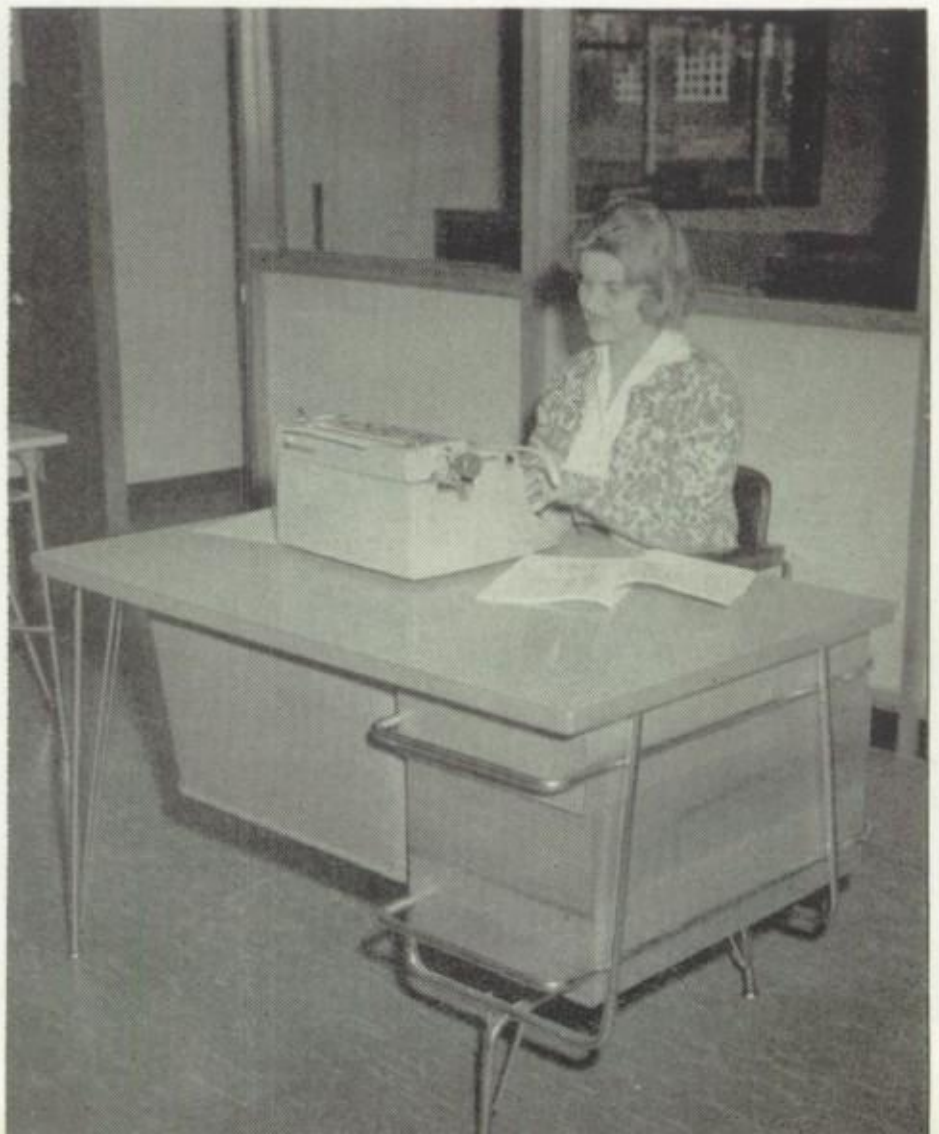
Hickory High School Students Capture Honors In . . .

Setting an example for H.H.S. students to follow in order to be useful and enterprising citizens is Sandy Shuford, who was chosen as 1961's Best Citizen by the Daughters of the American Revolution.



For accuracy and intelligence of answers on current affairs and historical events, Albert Keiser has been awarded the Jefferson Davis Gold Medal by the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Leading the student government of H.H.S. as President of the Student Council and the Inter-Club Advisory Council, Kathy Cauble is also known as a state leader. She holds the offices of Girls' State Governor and State Student Council Secretary.



Five H.H.S. students—Albert Keiser, Patti Clarke, Martha Poovey, Mary Ellen Robinson, and John Summers—are a tribute to their education and intelligence. They were ranked as 1961 National Merit Scholarship finalists.

National, State, And Local Competition In . . .

John Summers and Bill McFadden, H.H.S. Seniors, were semi-finalists for the John Motley Morehead Scholarship to the University of North Carolina. The scholarship is awarded on the basis of character, school recommendations, scholarship, and personal interviews with the Morehead Committee.

From eleven winners in North Carolina, Mary Hazel Willis and John Summers were first placers for the National Council of English Teachers' Award, marking their excellence in English Composition, grammar, and vocabulary.

Hickory High School's annual Football Banquet yielded trophies to two gridiron athletes: Jon Nixon was presented the "Team Before Self" trophy, and Mike Cummings received the "Scholastic Achievement" trophy for the highest academic rating of all football players during the past three years.

First places in Latin achievement tests covering Derivatives and Mythology were won by Albert Keiser, H.H.S. entry at the N. C. Junior Classical League Contest.

Sports, Government, Languages, Academic Excellence

Originally selected as the Best Junior English Students of H.H.S., Mary Hazel Willis, Mary Ellen Robinson, and John Summers, continued in competition until they were the recipients of the State Council of English Teachers' Award.

Miss Sandy Shuford

1961 HOMECOMING QUEEN

Reigning over the 1961 Homecoming Weekend was Miss Sandy Shuford, who received her crown at the climax of the half-time ceremonies during the football game. The President of the Student Body, Miss Kathy Cauble, crowned Sandy and led the festivities for the remainder of the weekend. Saturday night a gala Homecoming Dance was given in the H.H.S. gym honoring the Queen and her court, which was composed of the sponsors of the Senior football players and of various organizations with their escorts. Miss Kathy Cline was recognized as Maid of Honor for the Homecoming Weekend, and was escorted by John Summers.

Sandy Shuford exchanges her seventeenth birthday cake for a crown as Kathy Cauble, Student Council President, makes her the official 1961 Homecoming Queen.

Coronation Highlights Homecoming Weekend

MAID OF HONOR

Miss Kathy Cline

Lutz Mock, German A.F.S. student, enjoys his first American Homecoming as he escorts Queen Sandy Shuford through an aisle of admiring sponsors.

Girl Of The Year

Clara Reese proudly displays the coveted trophy awarded her as Girl of The Year—straight A's, LOG editor, and Spanish Club Scholarship winner—indicate her versatility in all phases of school activity.

Miss Hi Miss

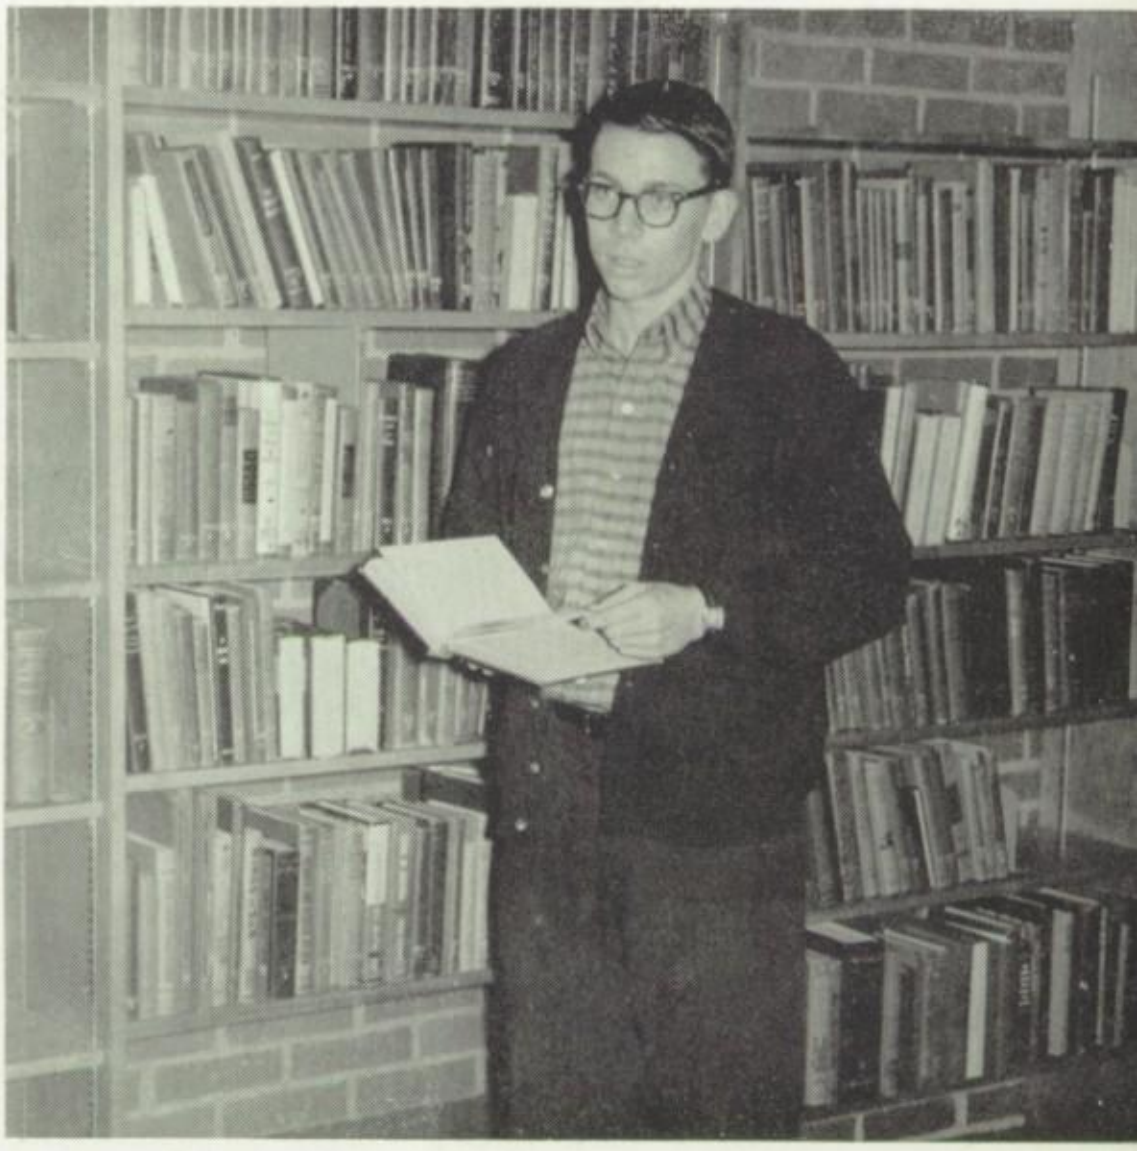
Honoring her personal attractiveness, leadership, scholastic achievement, and character, Gail Stevenson, as Miss Hi Miss, enjoyed a weekend of excitement at Winthrop College with two hundred other high school seniors of North and South Carolina.

Boy Of The Year

"King of Hearts," star football, basketball, and baseball player—these are the attributes contributing to the election of Gene Isenhour as H.H.S. Boy of the Year.

Boys' State

Chosen for his avid interest in political and foreign affairs, and his desire to discover more about these fields, Bill McFadden was H.H.S.'s 1961 delegate to Boys' State at the University of North Carolina.



Carrousel Princess

Unseasonable cloudbursts drenched spectators and wilted floats, but failed to dampen the spirits of Kathy Cline, as she represented H.H.S. in the 1961 Carrousel Parade in Charlotte. Last fall the Carrousel beauties from North and South Carolina were wined and dined in a glamour-filled weekend by the Knights and the Ladies of the Carrousel.

Girls' State

Delegates Kathy Cauble and Brenda Buchanan give resumé to HHS students of their week's experiences in politics and government at Girls' State on the campus of Woman's College of U.N.C.

Popular at Hickory High has been the boy with the German accent, but the strictly All-American look—Lutz Mock. During the 1961-62 school year, Lutz has delighted fellow students, teachers, and the entire community with his intelligence, sense of humor, and striking good looks. Even more important, Lutz has aroused the student body to the need to be informed about foreign affairs, and especially about the serious conditions in his city, Berlin.

Living with a prominent Hickory family, the Reverend Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Williamson, Lutz has become active in church services and activities in the community. With his brothers, Bill and Chuck, Lutz has enjoyed the active social and school life of an American teen-ager. During the spring, Lutz exchanged places with a fellow A.F.S.'er from a neighboring town for a week. This time was spent on a farm where he experienced North Carolina rural life.

Lutz Mock

German sausage intrigues American dog as Lutz tempts "Chip" Williamson with his imported delicacy, while Mrs. Williamson, Lutz's American mother, looks on with skepticism.

Because of her versatility, congeniality, and popularity here in Hickory, Sandy Shuford was able to excel in portraying to her exchange home in Roxas City, the Philippines, the life and personality of a typical American teen-age girl. Likewise, Sandy rapidly adapted to the school and community life of a Filipino teen-ager. During her summer abroad as an A.F.S. ambassador, Sandy was also introduced to the lives of the Japanese and Canadians, during her brief visits to these countries.

Since her return to Hickory, Sandy has shared many of her exciting experiences with the students of Hickory High through personal conversations and programs, and to the community through newspaper articles and speeches to various organizations. Through her contacts, Sandy has joined with other exchange students in illustrating how the A.F.S. program is a step toward world unity.

Hickory High's Loveliest Chosen By Troy Donahue

Troy Donahue
1961 Judge

Vying for the title of the 1961 Beauty Queen were forty-four of H.H.S.'s loveliest girls. With a golden coronet scepter in her hand, each of these girls helped to carry out the theme of "Coronation" as well as brighten the stage with their beauty and charm. Troy Donahue, chosen as H.H.S.'s favorite actor, was given the honor of selecting the Queen from the photographs of the ten finalists.

The profits from the annual event have been used to send delegates to the S.I.P.A. Convention and to finance various Quill and Scroll projects.

Mardi Gras reigned out of season, as confetti swirled through the air and brilliant-colored balloons floated down to the out-stretched arms of the dancers at the Junior-Senior Prom.

The transformation of a gym into a ballroom, and a girl in shorts and brush rollers into a young lady, are typical of the organized confusion a few hours before the Homecoming Dance.

Chosen for their beauty and sophistication, Revonda Pless and Gary Page capture the honor of "Clemmiest Clems"; Gene Isenhour and Rosemary Newton reign as Lil' Abner and Daisy Mae, because of their poise and urbanity.

Climaxing the 1961 Junior-Senior Prom was the crowning of two popular Seniors, Becky Deal and Arthur Burgess, as Queen Regina and King Rex.
